Britain's Naval Scouts Trailing City of Flint

London Reports Warships Sight Seized U.S. Ship

German Crew Keeps Vessel In Waters Of Neutral Norway While Britain's Vessels Mark Time; New Air Raids In Firth Of Forth Reported.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(UP)—Responsible German quarters said today that it is most likely that the American steamer City of Flint will be taken to Stettin, where it will arrive sometime after Saturday night. Stettin is a German Baltic port up the estuary of the River Oder.

LONDON—The British navy has sighted the United States freighter City of Flint, it was announced officially today.

A communique said:

"The admiralty announced that the steamship City of Flint has been sighted by our light forces proceeding to the southward inside Norwegian territorial waters.

"It is possible for the City of Flint to remain inside Norwegian and Swedish territorial waters until she enters the Baltic."

Dispatches from Bergen, Norway, said several British warships were observed off the Norwegian coast today, apparently watching the progress of the City of Flint down the coast.

The City of Flint passed the Bergen naval district at 9:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m., EST) today accompanied by the Norwegian mine layer Olav Tryggvason and two Norwegian destroyers.

American Seaman Ill.

Authoritative sources said a member of the City of Flint's American crew was sick and under treatment by a physician from the Olav Tryggvason. The seaman was not identified.

Observers here said it would be possible for British warships to take the City of Flint from her German captors a few hours after she leaves Haugesbund, 75 miles south of here, when she cuts into the open sea across the entrance of Bukken Fjord.

LONDON—(U.P.)—An Edinburgh dispatch to the London Evening News today said it was believed that a fight between British Royal Air Force planes and German raiders occurred today a few miles at sea from the Firth of Forth.

The air battle occurred, the dispatch said, when RAF planes intercepted German raiders attempting to reach the Scottish coast. It followed intense aerial activity in the whole Firth of Forth area.

'WE'LL ATTAIN GOAL'

Communist Organ Says Russia Will Reach Objectives by 'Crushing' Obstacles.

BULLETIN

HELSINGFORS—(INS)—A Soviet Russian ultimatum to Finland is expected to result from the latter's refusal to transfer Hangoe Islands to the U. S. S. R., according to reports in Helsingfors today.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Pravda, organ of the Communist party, declared today that Finland's Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko had "directly threatened" the Soviet Union and that his remarks of Wednesday night "cannot be apprised otherwise than as an appeal for war with the U. S. S. R."

Pravda said Erkko's position was "precisely like that of former Polish Foreign Minister Beck. It is known that he too made provocative speeches before the Polish-German war, and the result was that he provoked war with Germany."

Beck, it said, "had the support of certain powers, and because of this, Poland perished."

Britain and France were not named directly.

On Russia's part, Pravda asserted:

"We shall send to hell any and all maneuvers and we shall go directly toward our aims. We shall assure our safety and obtain our goal, crushing all in our way."

The newspaper attacked unnamed "political leaders" in Sweden, saying, "during the Czarist regime, when Russia had all of Finland, including the Aaland Is-

100,000 See Corn Huskers Compete For U. S. Crown Today

This is an airplane view of a huge crowd at a recent corn husking contest, an event which grew from a small beginning, into the nation's greatest agricultural sporting event. Champions and runners-up from 11 states were competing today for the 1939 championship in Lawrence, Kan., before an expected crowd of 100,000.

Huskers Beat Bangboards In Today's National Title Race

(By Associated Press)

LAWRENCE, Kas.—Agriculture presented its big sports event today, the national cornhusking contest with all the fanfare of a world series.

Champions and runnersup from 11 states took to the rows for 80 minutes of hard labor before a crowd sponsors expected to exceed 100,000.

Unique among sports events, it probably is the only national amateur contest in which all participants are professionals—all are farmers who husk corn for at least part of their livelihood.

First prize is $100.

Rules specify each contestant shall husk corn from six rows, two rows at a time. Rows are approximately a quarter mile long. Each contestant is accompanied by Gleaners, referees, umpires and guards. Their loads are weighed and deductions are made for huskings clinging to the ears and for corn left in the field. The championship is determined by the biggest net load.

Contestants are from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Minnesota's chances were jeopardized. Richard Huth, Granite Falls, state champion, suffered tonsilitis and Art Johnson, Bingham Lake, runnerup had an infected hand.

Huskers were shooting at the record 41.5 bushel established in 1935 by Elmer Carlson, Iowa. Last year's winner was Ted Balko, Minnesota.

TYGERS SEEK NOV. 23 GAME

Post-Season Benefit Contest for School Band Planned for Thanksgiving.

A post-season football game pitting the Mansfield Tygers against an unnamed high school opponent was being sought today by Mansfield school authorities for Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 23) at Stadium field.

The purpose of the game would be to help raise funds for the purchase of new uniforms for the Mansfield High school band, W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, said.

Mooseheart, Ill., New Philadelphia and Alliance already have been asked, Miller said, but none of the three were able to accept.

Jesse Beer, principal of Senior high school, communicated with officials of Columbus North and West high schools today. He said that there is a possibility that one of these two undefeated teams will accept.

North and West play their annual game next week,and Beer stated that an attempt will be made to bring the winner here.

The proposed game is tentatively scheduled for the morning, it was announced.

SENATE, HOUSE SET STAGE FOR ADJOURNMENT

Embargo Repealed, Leaders Press for Quick Clean-up of Last-Minute Formalities.

Lifting of Ban on Arms Sales to Start Surge of Orders From Belligerents.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— President Roosevelt said today that the neutrality bill on which Congress is about to complete action restores the historic position of United States neutrality. Authorizing direct quotation of his remarks at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said: "I am very glad that the bill has restored the historic position of neutrality of the United States."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — America's new neutrality program, lifting the arms embargo but narrowing the traditional "freedom of the seas" policy for United States shipping, required only last-minute formalities by congress today before becoming law.

A sweeping administration victory in the house that rejected proposals for complete and partial embargoes by more than 60 votes set the stage for quick final action and adjournment of the special session before the week ends.

The senate and house appointed conferees to work out a composite draft of neutrality legislation. In view of the fact that both chambers gave sizable majorities for repeal, approval of the committee's draft was a foregone conclusion.

As soon as President Roosevelt signs the bill, warring European nations can begin buying American munitions, guns and planes. Some administration quarters predict that foreign orders, chiefly from Great Britain and France, will total $1,000,000,000 within a few weeks.

Ashbrook One Of 19 Ohioans Against Repeal

Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, who represents Richland county and the 17th Ohio district in congress, was one of the 19 Ohio congressmen who voted against repeal of the arms embargo yesterday.

Only four of Ohio's 23-man delegation in the house voted for removal of the embargo which was repealed in the house by a vote of 243 to 181.

WASHINGTON: Roosevelt Rebukes Reds On Poor Manners

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today delivered a mild rebuke to officials of the Soviet Union with whom U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt has been engaged in controversy over the American freighter City of Flint.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked at his press conference about reports that Steinhardt might be recalled. He replied that he never has believed that poor manners should beget poor manners.

Soviet officials rebuffed Steinhardt when he sought from them definite information on the City of Flint which was taken to the Soviet port of Murmansk by a German prize crew.

President Roosevelt said that the German admiralty warning to this nation that the American liner Iroquois was to be sunk while en route from Europe with American refugees from the war zones remains a mystery.

That, he said, must be classed as one of the mysteries that probably will not be cleared up until after the war. The Iroquois arrived in New York safely.

He rejected the possibility, suggested by a correspondent, that German merchant marine vessels now in Latin American ports might engage in inter-American commerce within the 300-mile zone which the 21 American republics have declared must be a neutral zone.

A correspondent said that he understood there were some 80 German vessels which might make such an attempt. Mr. Roosevelt, however, recalled only one—the Havilland, which he said sailed from Puntas Arenas to another port where it is discharging its cargo of copra.

OFF TO ERIE

Snow Cruiser Leaves Akron on Way to Boston.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd's snow cruiser, which passed through Mansfield before daylight yesterday on its way to Boston, left Akron early today on a 90-mile trip to Erie, Pa. It will stay in Erie tonight.

The 75,000-ton monster was at the Akron Goodyear hangar last night where an estimated 50,000 persons viewed it.

Yesterday was the best day the cruiser has had since it left Chicago more than a week ago. Leaving Bucyrus early in the morning, it moved 85 miles across the state without a mishap, averaging about eight miles an hour. It passed through Mansfield at 6 a. m.

The cruiser added two new spare tires to its equipment at Akron. When it gets to Erie one of the four Diesel engines will be overhauled. The engine was damaged last Saturday when the cruiser went into a creek near Lima.

OFFERS TO TEAR UP CAR RAILS

Pittsburgh Firm Agrees to Fix Park Avenue West If It Can Have Tracks.

Who knows but what those old street car rails on Park avenue west may soon find their way to the Maginot line.

Not as rails, but in the form of death dealing guns or other destructive devices used in warfare.

That is, if a plan presented to city council today by a Pennsylvania concern goes through.

W. L. Painter of the Pa-Co Manufacturing company in Pittsburgh wrote city officials today, bargaining for the old steel rails on Park avenue west that have presented a traffic hazard for motorists since the street cars were abandoned here several years ago.

Painter's proposition was that

Ohio Faces Ruin If Bigelow Pensions Pass, Bricker Warns

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—"Ohio will suffer humiliation and ruin" if the proposed Bigelow constitutional amendments carry at the Nov. 7 election, Gov. John W. Bricker told a state-wide radio audience last night.

The governor asserted that the Bigelow pension plan "would raise the total of taxes, federal, state and local, paid in Ohio to one billion dollars annually," adding, "that is one-third of the total income of the people of Ohio."

"Every man," he averred, "will work two days for himself and one for the state to pay his taxes.

"I plead with my fellow citizens to choose the way of sanity and progress and vote down the appealing yet destructive proposal."

Governor Bricker urged electors to approve an amendment proposing creation of a state board of education and legislation to reorganize the state civil service commission. His broadcast was sponsored by the Republican state central committee.

The proposals of Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati would guarantee a monthly income of $50 to single Ohioans and $80 to couples over 60 and retired, and would liberalize requirements for initiating legislation.

Criticizing Bigelow's initiative and referendum change, Governor Bricker declared its approval

YEA, HUNTERS

Here's Straight Dope on Those New 1939 Regulations.

All right, let's straighten out the hunting regulations — which are more complicated this year than they ever were before.

Under the "staggered" regulations set up by the state, rabbit hunting season begins at noon Wednesday, Nov. 8. You hunt rabbits on that day from noon to 5:30 p. m. For the balance of November, you may hunt rabbits Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. You can't hunt 'em on Sundays, Mondays or Tuesdays in November. In December you can hunt rabbits every day but Sunday, and the season ends Dec. 30.

Pheasant season opens at noon Nov. 8. Thereafter you may hunt pheasant from 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. No hunting Sundays, Mondays or Tuesdays. The season ends Nov. 30.

Yesterday The News-Journal made an error. We hope this straightens it out.

PARIS: French Guns Halt Nazi Artillery Fire On Village

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Until they were silenced by a powerful French counter-bombardment, German guns today staged a heavy and systematic shelling of an unidentified French village about ten miles northwest of Sarreguemines.

French army lines and settlements were pounded with six-inch shells, in an area near the district of Forbach, which suffered a heavy bombardment yesterday.

New German troop concentrations today were reported behind the lines north of Sarreguemines, indicating the possibility that a large German raid is in the making.

Today's communique, No. 121, indicated additional infantry clashes as well. The bulletin said:

"The night was quiet, except for some artillery and infantry fire.

"During the day of Nov. 2, a German twin-engined reconnaissance plane was brought down in our territory by a British fighter."

More than on the war itself, however, attention was centered in France today on the enthusiastically-received action of the American house of representatives in supporting repeal of the embargo act.

France's ministerial council met today under the chairmanship of President Albert Lebrun.

Traffic Citations Fall Off In October, Accidents Increase, Figures Reveal

Number of Tags Issued Lowest This Year, 106 Mishaps Reported.

Citations and arrest for traffic violations fall off—traffic accidents increase.

At least that is what the police records show. October arrests for traffic violations dropped to the lowest figure of the year. Ninety-two persons were cited for traffic violations and one was arrested for speeding.

Meanwhile, two persons were killed in traffic accidents within the city limits, one third of the entire number killed in the city this year.

Another 17 were injured. Police records show 106 automobile accidents on city streets during the month.

Obviously, not all of the accidents nor injuries can be blamed on the slump in arrests for traffic law violations. But the fact still remains that accidents have increased as traffic arrests have decreased.

The fewest accidents were reported in July, a month in which 388 traffic arrests were made. There were only 66 accidents in that month. The number of arrests was the third high for any month this year.

Asked why the number of traffic arrests has dropped, Police Chief Meade K. Bates said, "People aren't violating the laws."

Last February when Bates instituted what he called a "sustained law enforcement campaign" pointed particularly against parking violations, a total of 449 tickets were issued. Each month since that time a 300-ticket average has been maintained until October when the figure dropped to 157.

PLANE GUARDED

Forced Down by Fire, Army Airman Make Safe Landing.

CIRCLEVILLE —(INS)— Highway patrolmen today guarded an army attack plane that made a forced landing at nearby Commercial Point last night when it caught fire. Lt. Daniel F. Willard Railroader Hurt In Fall On Ice, Snow Flurries Here

Snow flurries today and a prediction of temperatures below freezing tonight sent Mansfield people scurrying around for winter clothing today, and at least one victim of winter weather was in a hospital in Willard, although the fall season has more than a month and a half to go before the calendar winter sets in.

Shorly after a snow and a sleet storm enveloped Willard early this morning, Edward Brooks, switchman for the B. and O. railroad, slipped on the ice in the yards and fell, fracturing four ribs. He was taken to Municipal hospital there. The ground was white with snow and ice in that district this morning.

Snow flurries continued throughout the morning in Mansfield and the wind had a sharp tang. Temperatures were considerably below the average for this time of the month, with the thermometer hovering around 36 at noon. During the night temperatures dropped to 26. The 14-year average of 33 was more than 12 degrees below normal.

The forecast for Saturday said "fair with rising temperatures but football fans will probably wear heavy coats at tomorrow's games.

THEATERS

THE motorist who mixes gasoline and liquor is treated as a criminal in the short subject "Drunk Driving" which is the next release in the Crime Doesn't Pay series. The fact that a man doesn't premeditate a crime makes him no less a criminal than the one who sets out to commit murder, according to this picture. The theme is a direct indictment of the drivers who can drive "just as well" after a few drinks. The story will deal with a young salesman, with the brightest of prospects, who celebrates a promotion and the celebration ends in the worst of tragedies. "Drunk Driving," produced by M-G-M won the David S. Beyer Memorial award for the 1939 film which most effectively encourages safety on the highways.

Marxes At Ohio.

Groucho, Harpo and Chicko Marx surround themselves with all sorts of animals, midgets, strong men, a wild gorrila, and a cast of talented players in their 1939 comedy, "Marx Bros At The Circus," which has just been released and which opens an engagement at the Ohio tomorrow. Kenny Baker and Florence Rice are the young romanticists. Kenny is part owner of a circus and Miss Rice a performer; Groucho is Attorney Loophole who attempts to straighten out the affairs of the circus. Chicko is Antonio, a general handyman and Harpo is the mute assistant to the strong man, played by Nat Pendleton Eve Arden plays the Up-Side-Down girl. Everybody is either nutty by birth or acquires the condition.

Uncensored Version.

Universal is re-issuing its great World war picture "All Quiet On The Western Front" which it advertises as the "uncensored version." This means assemblying the scenes and dialogue which were cut out of the picture when it was first made because of Hollywood's fear of tramping on German's toes—and the foreign market. Now, with the market shot and Germany's feeling no longer considered, these scenes are being restored to the picture. "All Quiet" is one of the greatest of all war pictures and has an impressive masculine cast. Louis Wolheim, Lew Ayers and John Wray play the principal roles. The uncensored version opens at the Madison tomorrow.

Stalwart Hero.

Charles Starrett, stalwart Western hero, is seen as a sergeant in the Royal Northwest Mounties, who goes after the murderer of a trading post agent. The man he is forced to arrest is one whom the officer believes to be innocent, and how they trap the real murderer makes up the story. Iris Meredith is seen opposite Starrett. "The House of Fear" brings William Gargan, Irene Hervey and Walter Woolf King in a wierd mystery. Alan Dinehart and El Brendel have major roles in this Majestic attraction.

Singing Campaign.

Political workers might take a leaf from Gene Autry's campaign for sheriff in "Colorado Sunset." When he decides to run for sheriff in opposition to one of the cattle country crooks, he rounds up his Troubadors, and with the aid of the Women's club, he stages a singing campaign that leaves his opponents away back in the tail end of the political parade. "Hell's Kitchen," one of the toughest districts in a great city, is too tough even for the Dead End Kids. These two features are at the Ritz.

Timber Racket.

A new kind of racketeer is exposed in "Raw Timber" in which Tom Keen is starred and which is a Park attraction for the remainder of the week. A new Government Enemy No. 1 is seen in the timber thief, who by falsifying records makes inroads into one of the country's greatest natural resources. Keene is seen as a Forest Ranger. "The Last of The Mohicans," picturization of James Fenimore Cooper's great novel, is the second attraction. A thrilling love story blends with the stirring events of the Indian wars of 1757.

"Oh, that's all right. Charge something and bring it back the next day. I do it all the time."

COOKING SCHOOL TO INTEREST ALL

It's for Those Who Know Little of Preparing Food as Well as 'Best Cooks.'

You don't have to be the "best cook" to take an interest in The News-Journal's cooking school which opens a four-day session Tuesday morning at the Ohio theater. In fact, the less you know about cooking, the more interest you will take in the cooking instructions.

If you don't know why your pie crusts are always soggy, or why your dumplings are heavy instead of fluffy, here is a grand chance to learn.

The homemaker who doesn't like to prepare three meals a day, and who wonders what in the world to have for dinner, is going to find the "Pageant of Foods" a revelation and a help.

Miss Ruth Chambers, who conducts the school again this year, is confident that the classes she has planned are going to arouse enthusiasm even among those who aren't "born cooks" and who think they have no talent or "knack" for this phase of home making.

"Success in cooking is a matter of knowing how, not of some lucky chance," she says. "Certain methods are right and others are wrong. Fortunately, the correct methods are in most cases the simplest."

During the four days 100 recipes will be given out by Miss Chambers. Most of these she will demonstrate on the Ohio theater stage. At least two-thirds of them are practical for every day use in any home, the others being for company and party meals.

Miss Chambers will be assisted by Miss Reba Staggs. The sessions open at 9 and close at 11:30 a. m. There will be daily prizes and grand prizes.

Snyder Sees Tough Game for Tygers Saturday

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MOOSEHEART, Ill., model children's home sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose, will probably be on the Mansfield high grid schedule in 1941 . . . What is the circumference of a baseball? . . . Nine inches is right . . . What is the circumference of a golf ball? . . . You don't know, huh! . . . Well, for a fooler place a golf ball beside a baseball . . . and guess . . . Betcha you'll be wrong . . . Jim Hyde, Erie, Pa., East high coach, will testify to the impossibility of stopping Massillon . . . The Pennsylvania school used every defensive formation imaginable against the Tigers, and yet they scored . . . Whetherupon Brother Hyde gave up and remarked disgustedly, "The heck with it. From now, I'm just going to watch the game." (Final score: Massillon 66, Erie East 0.) . . . Bellevue high school, where our Vern Hoffman coached last year, has not scored a point on the grid this season, but has played four scoreless ties . . . There is talk that the defunct League of Six Nations will be revived.

150 G'S TO GO TO CARDS FOR MEDWICK.

WHEN, and if, of course, the St. Louis-Chicago deal for Ducky Medwick goes through, the Cubs will pass 150 G's along with Billy Herman and Clay Bryant, they say . . . Everyone in the fight game knew that Tony Canzoneri was ready for pugilism's boneyard before his knockout by young Al Davis . . . everyone but Canzoneri . . . and now Tony's ready to admit that he's through . . . The big question is: Who will represent the so-called east at Pasadena? . . . They say that Tennessee has the inside track, but they said that last year and Duke went to the coast . . . having spent several million dollars to prepare for the Olympic Games, regarded as a tremendous force for international amity, Finland probably will wind up using the building for barracks.

Some of the Wisconsin diehards already are writing the Chicago papers, "Too bad we don't play Chicago this year."

CHANGES LIKELY IN CAGE RULES

A NUMBER of changes are due in basketball . . . Legislation making backboards nearly one-third smaller than their present size will be written into the rules in less than five years, according to the dope. . . . A desire to make the game more attractive for the spectators—especially those fans who must sit at the end of the court—is the chief reason behind the change. . . . Changes in this year's rules: 1—Optional acceptance of penalties on fouls; 2—shooter gets two free throws if fouled from behind while in the act of shooting; 3—any player on team can call time out; 4—after a free-throw for a technical foul, play is resumed by a throw-in from mid-court instead of a jump ball at center or out-of-bounds under the basket as formerly.

BY OSCAR RUHL.

PICKED to win with only a minimum amount of exertion, Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers of Mansfield high school breezed through a light signal drill today as they tapered off for Saturday's encounter with Ashland at Stadium field.

While heavily favored to keep their football supremacy over the neighboring city school secure, Mentor Snyder refused to fall in line with the experts who predict an easy victory.

Snyder scouted the A's in their annual clash with Mt. Vernon last Monday, and what he saw did not substantiate the beliefs of those who see a parade of Mansfield touchdowns Saturday.

Ashland completely outplayed the Jackets throughout, but was held to a 6 to 6 tie. Coach John Longley's men would have won had a dry field prevailed, according to reports.

The A's boast of a well-balanced, versatile backfield. It consists of Hesson, Howell, Mumaw and Bedwell, with Puglisi, who is on the reserve roster, another fine ball player.

While Ashland has not been performing against the caliber of foes that the Tygers encountered, Longley has manufactured a splendid record with what was rated as an ordinary team early this fall.

The only defeat suffered by the A's this season came in the game with Norwalk, which won 6 to 0. Tie games were played with Galion and Mt. Vernon.

The major victory of the season to date was registered at the expense of Wooster, which was downed 22 to 6. This defeat ended the Generals' winning streak.

Regardless of how the game stacks up on paper, Snyder is planning to start his first-string lineup. Not many lineup changes are likely, either, if the A's provide the opposition that Snyder expects.

The only question mark in the lineup is Gene Miller, who suffered a badly bruised face in the Akron Kenmore game.

A special helmet has been obtained for the lanky wingman, and present indications are that he will be in the starting lineup

One of the reasons why Snyder expects a tough tussle is because this game is the major event on Ashland's schedule. The A's annually point for Mansfield, and they will pull no punches. Neither will the Tygers, for that matter.

'Stop Hal' Is Cry at Ohio State

Hursh Expected to Cause Bucks Trouble If He Connects With Passes.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Indiana's Hoosiers invade Ohio's capital today for Saturday's Big Ten football struggle in which they hope to use a bit of Buckeye pitching talent to upset the Big Ten title aspirations of Coach Francis Schmidt's Ohio State team.

Hal Hursh of Middletown, O., rated one of the outstanding conference hurlers of pigskins, is the youth Coach Alvin Nugent (Bo) McMillin is counting on to snare victory for the Hoosier invaders.

"Hurling Hal" has heaved four touchdown passes this year, and has been on the pitching end of 69 aerials, of which 37 were completed for a gain of 538 yards, almost a third of a mile.

Following last week's not-so-good pass defense against Cornell, the Ohio boys have concentrated on stopping aerial offenses, but the scouts say they'll have to show vast improvement to keep Hursh from connecting.

Although the Hoosier-Buckeye clash tops a 23-game schedule of week-end contests involving Ohio teams, the Alfred Holbrook-Ashland fray will serve as a curtain raiser tonight.

McMillin and his "pore little boys" were due to arrive just before noon, and hold an early afternoon practice session at the Buckeye stadium. The Bucks were to work out later and go to a country club for the night.

Ohio's punting machinery came in for a bit of overhauling this week, Schmidt attempting to correct the "down the middle" kicks of his toe-artists by having them aim for the sidelines. Cornell ran back too many last week, Schmidt said, and he wants no round trip tickets on the boots against Indiana.

The "Dads' day" crowd is expected to be between 40,000 and 45,000, the Ohio loss to Cornell, after being 14 points to the good, having some effect on the ticket sale. Of 23 previous games between the Hoosiers and the Bucks, Ohio won 13, Indiana 7, and three were deadlocks.

* * *

Three changes in the Buck starting lineup loomed today. They would send Charley Anderson, sensational colored end, to the right flank in place of Frank Clair, who has a slight injury; Jim Daniell back to his tackle berth following recovery from damages suffered against Northwestern, and Howard Wedebrook to Frank Zadworney's right halfback post. The latter hinges on whether Ohio receives the kickoff. If the Bucks do not boot the ball to start the game, Schmidt wants Wedebrook in there to punt it back at the Hoosiers if Ohio fails to gain.

Rams Prepare For Cardinals

CLEVELAND—Smarting under the sting of a 14-14 tie with Pittsburgh's Pirates, Coach Earl (Dutch) Clark drove his charges through a long, hard workout here today in preparation for Sunday's invasion of Municipal Stadium by the Chicago Cardinals.

"The boys had plenty of tough football to play there for awhile," Clark said today, "and they were due for a let down somewhere. They eased off just a little too much on the Pittsburgh team and we want to guard against a recurrence of that situation Sunday."

Sunday's game will mark the initial appearance of Marshall Goldberg, Pitt's sensational All-American halfback of last year, in Cleveland. Also making their local bows for the first time will be Ki Aldrich, All-American center of last year's Texas Christian eleven, and Quarterback George Faust of Minnesota, the Big Ten's outstanding quarterback in 1938.

BELLVILLE high's unbeaten and untied Bluejays have two ambitions to realize in their annual gridiron tussle with the thrice-beaten Madison Rams under the arcs at Madison field at 8 p. m. today. The contest is Madison's Homecoming Game and is expected to draw the largest gathering ever to witness a football setto in the suburb.

Coach Royd Hodge's crack combine, favorite in the setto, will be out to erase the memory of the setback the Rams tacked on its record last year to spoil a perfect season, and also to register Victory No. 8.

Led by Co-Capt. Howard "Tick" Hamilton, the state's leading individual scorer, the Bluejays hope to turn loose their mighty scoring machine at its full power.

What tactics Mentor Al Fendrick will employ in an effort to halt Hamilton and company remains to be seen. The Madison coach has been drilling his proteges nearly two weeks for the game.

The Rams may resort to an aerial bombardment to sink the Bellville juggernaut. In several games this season, the Bluejays have shown weakness in successfully halting passes.

Closes Career

When Ashland college takes the field against Holbrook tonight, it will mark the closing of a brilliant football career by Harry Dutka, star quarterback from Parma.

Harry never played football in high school but had little difficulty in winning a regular position during his sophomore year in college. In 1938 he was honorably mentioned in all-Ohio selections, and this year has again proven himself to be one of the outstanding backs in the conference.

CASH PROFITS ON MILD RISE IN AIRCRAFTS

Traders Cheered by Passage of Arms Embargo Repeal; Stocks Fold Later.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market traders cashed profits on all early mild advances in Aircrafts today and leading issues in virtually all departments retreated later.

Curtiss-Wright started with a mark-up of ⅜ at 10⅜ on a block of 20,000 shares. It later cancelled this while Douglas, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Bendix, North American Aviation and Consolidated Aircraft backed away rapidly.

Some buying at the beginning was attributed to the house passage of the arms embargo repeal which will enable plane makers to start shipping to belligerents just as soon as the president signs the bill.

Among losers were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Western Union, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda and N. Y. Central.

Financial quarters expressed interest in week-end merchandising reviews which indicated public spending was being maintained at a relatively high rate.

Dun & Bradstreet placed this week's retail activities at a shade above the preceding week and between 9 and 16 per cent over the corresponding 1938 period.

DIPLOMATS IN LONDON CLAIM DUCE'S ANGRY

Predict Mussolini Might Even Join Allies in War If Nazis Move Against Balkans.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Italy will desert the Rome-Berlin axis completely and even possibly join Great Britain and France in the war against Germany if Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler makes any aggressive moves against the Balkan countries.

This was the belief expressed in high neutral diplomatic circles in London today, which at the same time acknowledged Premier Mussolini's genuine and sincere desire to stay out of the conflict.

Mussolini was represented in these circles as "pushed to the limit of his patience" by the Russo-German rapprochement communism still being poison to the Italians—and is actively building fences around Yugoslavia, Hungary, Greece and Turkey in an encirclement movement of his own to preserve the Mediterranean as Italy's sphere of influence.

Giuseppe Bastianini, new Italian ambassador to London and a former under-secretary in the foreign office at Rome, inadvertently let the cat out of the bag in an "off the record" talk which was nevertheless published in London.

"Fascism is absolutely incompatible with communism," he said, only a few hours before Premier Mussolini shook up his cabinet and ousted or shifted openly pro-nazi elements.

Blocked By Stalin.

Diplomatic circles declare that Germany is blocked in Rumania by Josef Stalin's insistence that Soviet Russia should dominate the Black Sea. It is pointed out also that the Turkish mutual assistance pact with Great Britain and France is a dominant factor.

With his "drang nach osten" thus stopped, high circles believe that Hitler may spring another of his surprises by striking northward and occupying Denmark, which military observers agree would be only a 24 hour job for the German army.

From Denmark, Hitler might go further against virtually defenseless Sweden and Norway, which possess huge stores of the world's finest ore as well as steel mills, armament factories and lumber—all vital to Germany.

The allies, it was pointed out would be no more able to defend the Scandinavian countries than they were capable of saving Poland. There is growing fear in Scandinavian diplomatic circles that secret clauses in the Russo-German pact provide for joint domination of the Baltic, with Germany moving against Denmark, Sweden and Norway while Russia crushes Finland in the wake of its successful pressure against Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

HELD TO JURY

Mt. Gilead Woman Bound Over in Budget Sale of Suits.

CARDINGTON — Mrs. Hazel G. Ling of Mt. Vernon, operator of Harry Ling's Budget Plan for the purchase of suits, overcoats and topcoats, had been bound over to the Morrow county grand jury here today by Justice Frank Aliga on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Complaints were filed against Mrs. Ling after she had allegedly failed to deliver suits on the completion of payments totalling $30 as she had promised.

Weekly payments are made by club members and each week one member is supposed to receive a prize in the form of a paid up balance on his garment.

Sadie Hawkins Day Week-End of Fun on Ashland Campus

ASHLAND—It was Sadie Hawkins Day on the Ashland College campus today, and the women will do the dating and the paying for the week-end, and the men will be the guests, and will they like it.

It all began when the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. thought that it might be a good idea to sort of switch the tables for once, and give the male members of society a chance to have a good time and have some one else foot the bill.

So, from this morning on, the women of Ashland College asked for the dates, and among the obligations they are to perform will be to call on their "men" and entertain them; if they go to the movies, pay the way; and if they go lunching, to provide the money.

PLANE ROUTED

BASEL, Switzerland — (INS) — A huge German bombing plane attempting to cross the border into France was turned back damaged by six fast French pursuit ships today.

Observers in Basel were able to read the insignia J-AS Junker 52 on the German plane and heard bursts of machine-gun fire. The French suddenly attacked from a high altitude, forcing the bomber to wheel about with the enemy ships in swift pursuit and head back toward the Siegfried line.

SOME APPLES!

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation reported today it had purchased more than 1,650,000 bushels of surplus apples since the government's buying program was started Oct. 6.

The apples are being distributed among families on relief, school children and welfare institutions. Purchases have been made in 22 states, including Ohio. Prices paid have ranged from 50 to 75 cents a bushel.

Democratic campaign speakers got a little tough last night.

Attorney A. S. Beach, veteran Democratic stumper, attacked William J. Locke, Republican candidate for mayor for what he called "glaring generalities" in his platform, declared that Mansfield should have a mayor "who at least knows where the city building is." His reference was to the fact that Locke has been a resident of Mansfield for "only nine years."

He followed that slap with a reference to an assertion he said Republicans had made that Locke had been a cashier of a bank at Sharon, Pa., and added "but they don't tell what happened to the officials of that bank when it failed."

Beach did not enlarge on the statement. He admitted later, however, that Locke was not involved in the bank failure.

Attorney George H. Blecker, non-partisan candidate for municipal judge, speaking at the same Sixth ward rally at Hedges school, injected the issue of the fund shortage in the office of the clerk of courts into the campaign by inference, though he did not mention it specifically.

Allen K. Ports, named court clerk by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Blecker's opponent, was sentenced to Ohio penitentiary as the result of the shortage. He made up the shortage.

Blecker charged that "laxity" had prevailed in handling affairs of the court and said "I'll at least know what's going on. You folks know what I mean. I don't have to enlarge on that."

Other speakers at the meeting agreed that Blecker's inference concerned the Ports case. "He couldn't have meant anything else," they said.

Blecker also said he was "thinking a good deal" about imposing jail sentences on drunken drivers, although he emphasized that he was not promising such sentence.

"But you can rest assured that if I mete out punishment, that punishment will stick and will not be suspended at a later date."

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, seeking reelection asserted "we Democrats still consider a public office a public trust," stating that he believed the Democrats to be the more sincere of the two political organizations when it came to serving the people.

Beach, in hitting at Locke's platform, said: "It's like one of those old bustle dresses that our grandmothers wore. It covers everything and touches nothing."

Answering Attorney S. H. Cramer's charges that Mayor Hunter had taken credit for reducing the city's bonded indebtedness and tax rate, something that was accomplished during a Republican regime, Beach said.

"That debt was reduced and the tax rate was reduced while we had a Democratic council and Kelley as our city auditor and now they want to take credit for it."

Reassuring an "efficient and economical" government, Mayor Hunter pledged himself to continue the administration of municipal affairs as "proven during the past 21 months."

Candidates for other municipal offices were introduced by Philip Smith, candidate for council-at-large who presided at the meeting.

Tonight the Young Democratic club will meet at 7:30 at Prospect park. Atty Francis O'Brien will be the speaker

Senator's Wife Says New Deal Trying to Cover Errors By War Talk.

The 1940 state and national campaigns were brought into Mansfield's municipal campaign last night as two of Ohio's leading Republicans went to bat for the Mansfield G. O. P. slate before a crowd of more than 700 at a city-township rally in Senior high school auditorium.

Speaking in behalf of her husband's candidadcy for the Republican presidential nomination next year, Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, accused the New Deal administration of "trying to cover up its mistakes and failures by focusing attention on the war situation in Europe."

The other speaker, State Senator D. A. Baumhart of Vermilion, praised the Bricker state administration and urged support of the civil service amendment which will be voted on at next Tuesday's election.

Both speakers told the crowd that Republican victories in municipal elections this fall are important as "the groundwork for G. O. P. success in the state and nation in 1940."

Mrs. Taft's talk was concerned mainly with what she called "home brew propaganda," which she said characterized the national administration's attempt to cover up its blunders until after the 1940 election.

She talked about neutrality, and without mentioning Senator Taft in connection with the fight to repeal the arms embargo, she said "the important thing is to stay at peace and it is a fine thing that our peace policy is not a partisan policy."

Senator Taft has worked with President Roosevelt for repeal of the arms embargo in the face of considerable pressure from the senator's fellow Republicans in Washington.

"The neutrality legislation (now passed and needing only minor changes) will prevent a repetition of such things as the City of Flint incident," Mrs. Taft said.

"Propaganda is beginning to roll across the nation and we hear of a third term for the president because we shouldn't change horses in the middle of the stream," she asserted. "We must fight against such talk as that and remember that the New Deal would like to have the 'forgotten man' forget that he still doesn't have a job."

"More important to us than the European war is the fact that our national debt is piling up at the rate of $11,000,000 a day and there are still nine or 10 million men out of work," she added.

Backs Civil Service Bill.

Urging a "yes" vote on the Civil service referendum, the last issue of four on the state-wide ballot, Senator Baumhart said success of the proposal at the polls will mean "continuance of the state administration's program to reorganize and salvage the Civil service department which had been grossly misused under the preceding administration."

Citing the achievements so far under the Bricker regime, Baumhart said the governor had kept his promises to improve the tax department, old age pension division, bureau of unemployment compensation, and the liquor department.

"The Republican administration has produced an $18,000,000 surplus in the state's general fund, set up cash instead of promises for relief, provided cash instead of IOU's for the schools, and boosted the income and cut the expenses of the liquor department," the senator said.

Of the municipal candidates, only William J. Locke, candidate for mayor, and Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch spoke at the session.

Locke urged election of Republican councilmen so "my hands will not be tied if I am elected mayor."

Judge Kalbfleisch said "I depend upon intelligence of the voters to refute the ridiculous charge of my opponent that I have been alibiing in this campaign.

The meeting, which virtually concluded the Republican speaking campaign in the city, was in charge of Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, compaign chairman.

Speaking in behalf of Locke, Cramer said "we will withdraw our challenge to the mayor to show how much he has reduced the city debt in the past two years, because he doesn't seem to want to answer it."

Atty. John Catlett introduced Senator Baumhart and Atty. H. H. Schettler presented Mrs. Taft. The high school band played a concert before the meeting.

75 MORE JOIN P. T. A. GROUPS

Membership Hits 2,107 as 4 More Schools Report 3 Days After Drive Ends.

Mansfield Parent Teacher association membership continued to grow today, three days after the annual drive closed, with 75 new members bringing the total to a new all-time high of 2,107.

Four city P. T. A. groups accounted for the latest memberships, Mrs. Glenn C. Young, membership chairman of the P. T. A. council, said. They are Bowman, Hedges, Newman and Senior high.

The annual membership campaign ended with a total citywide membership of 2,032, an increase of 217 over last year's total. Three schools have not completed their individual drives.

Two of the four schools brought their drives to a close yesterday. Bowman added 40 members making its total membership 201, and Newman added 15 more, making its total 125.

Sixteen parents were added to the Senior high group making its membership 274, and a recount of the Hedges school membership gave it four more, and a total of 474, the largest in the city.

"Associations can accept new members until next March even though the membership drive has closed," Mrs. Young said. Carpenter, Western Avenue and Country Day school are the only schools who have not completed their drive.

Absentee Vote Far Below That In City Election In 1937

County board of election officials were not sure today whether it was lack of interest in the municipal election or failure to make the voting deadline that cut the total absentee vote far below that of two years ago.

The election board had requests for 222 absentee ballots as against 313 in the municipal election of 1937. Several of the ballots were not back at the deadline at noon today, G. C. Balliet, chairman of the election board, said. Total number of votes cast was not available early this afternoon.

Balliet said a shortened period for voting absentees and stricter requirements for voting the ballots probably contributed to the decrease.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—William L. Leonard today held a hollow court victory over ten city and police officials in his $18,312 damage suit for "malicious destruction" of his property last Feb. 13. Common Pleas Judge Alfred Mack ordered Lieut Clem Merz to pay Leonard one cent.

The other nine defendants, all of whom admitted entering the plaintiff's establishment and destroying property, were not asked to pay damages. Leonard said he was engaged in the business of manufacturing amplifying equipment but police said his premises were being used as a betting establishment.

Six persons indicted secretly by the county grand jury two days ago had been arrested today by deputy sheriffs and jailed to await arraignment at 9 a. m. Saturday before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

Among those arrested were Luther Cooper and Earl Crayton, colored youths from Toledo, cited for robbery on the complaints of two Mansfield women who said their purses were snatched several days ago.

The complaints were filed by Mrs. Frank Russell, 537 North Mulberry street, and Mrs. Arvilla Boals, 48½ Park avenue west. Both told police their purses containing small amounts of change were taken.

Others arrested on indictments were Kenneth Wheatcraft, 35, Bellville; Francis Shaffer, 33, Bellville, and Virgil Shaffer, 41, of 170 North Mulberry street, all held for non-support, and Beulah DeMartino, 34, of 102½ North Walnut street, accused of assault and battery.

Authorities expected to make other arrests today on the 23 secret indictments returned by the grand jury. Twelve of the 14 persons indicted openly by the jurors are already in jail and will be arraigned Saturday.

CHECK BOUNCES

Fifth 'Bad Paper' Given to Gas Station Returns.

Another bad check—the fifth to be reported here in the past month, turned up today.

Earl Roadpoach, manager of a gasoline filling station at 300 North Mulberry street, told police that he had cashed a check for a man giving the name of Tom E. Clark and that today the check was returned from the bank marked "no account."

Roadpoach told officers that the man presented an $8 check in payment for a $1.55 purchase and that he had given him $6.45 in change.

He said the man posed as a state highway department worker and that when he called the division office he was told that no one by that name was employed there.

"Vendol" Relieved Backache For Mansfield Tire Worker

McPherson Street resident says hardly a day or night passed without awful suffering till Vendol acted as a diuretic on kidneys and relieved constipation.

MR. GEORGE W. CAIN

"Before I began taking Vendol a few weeks ago, I was in pretty bad shape so naturally feel very friendly toward Vendol since the big change has taken place in my feelings since taking this medicine," said Mr. George W. Cain of 184 McPherson Street, a sand blaster at the Mansfield Rubber Company to the Vendol Man in the Central Drug Store recently.

"I'm sure my troubles came from sluggish kidneys and constipated bowels which gave me such pains in my back that it seemed every move I made sent pains racing down my legs.

"In addition to these troubles this constipation kept my stomach in an upset condition so that nearly everything I ate turned sour, formed gas, acid risings came up in my throat, often with little bits of undigested food, and all this made me very uncomfortable; then at night there was an added trouble from constipation so that my sleep was not restful.

"I read quite often what some man or woman right here in town said about Vendol's relieving them of the same troubles so I thought it reasonable to believe Vendol would help me, so got some, and I do not hesitate to say that it has done all I expected.

"Vendol relieved my constipation and acted as a diuretic to my kidneys so nicely that this relieved the aches and pains, calmed my nerves so that I enjoy peaceful sleep and I awaken ready for my daily work. I'm glad to add my praise for this wonderful medicine."

Come to the Central Drug Store, Corner Main and Fourth Streets, ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine and tell you honestly whether or not I believe it will help you. So, come today if possible. All leading druggists sell Vendol.

QUESTION ALLEGED MAIL-ORDER LOTHARIO IN POISON ATTEMPT

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Police today delved deeply into the past of Joseph Huebscher, a wizened 69-year-old man described by them as a mail-order Lothario whose third wife accused hom of attempting to murder her on their honeymoon.

Huebscher, who police said, admitted serving a 20-year sentence for a New York murder in 1905, was arrested upon his arrival on the liner Washington accompanied by an elderly woman and carrying a brief case with $36,000 worth of stocks and bonds.

The woman, Margaret Lef, told police she had given Huebscher $800 cash, deeds to $7,000 worth of property and intended to give him $3,000 she had in a New York bank as soon as he fulfilled his promise of marriage. They met, Huebscher told police, through an advertisement inserted in a Swiss newspaper.

Huebscher was held for the police lineup today on a charge of violating the Sullivan law regulating possession of firearms and attempted grand larceny.

A loaded pistol and 25 rounds of ammunition he carried were, he told police, for a friend, Hans Lang, in San Francisco.

Huebscher explained his first wife died in 1937 and left him $15,000 cash. His second wife, police said, was Rene Patterson. His third wife, Barbara Cesarina, of Chicago, alleged that he attempted to kill her with a poison-soaked sponge which was placed on their pillow in their honeymoon cabin aboard the liner Pennland in 1938.

Kentucky Officials to Probe Fire Which Killed Mother, 4 Children.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky.—(AP)—A coroner's inquest into the fatal burning of the wife and four children of a WPA worker was deferred today while firemen sought the cause of the fire that trapped them in a bedroom of their five-room frame home.

The bodies of the five, Mrs. Earl Vaughn, 28, Shelba, 2, Letha, 3, Billy, 5, and George, 8, caught on the upper floor when flames closed the only stairway, were found in the same room along with the body of a pet dog.

Vaughn, who had left a few minutes before the fire last night to go to a restaurant nearby, was restrained by firemen from entering the burning house.

SEEKS GIRL, 8, WHO FIGURED IN COURT FIGHT

Grandfather Asks Custody of Child Sent to County Home Because of Dispute.

The grandfather of Vonda Jean Allen, the eight-year-old girl who figured in a strange court case in Richland county last winter, today sought custody of the child and her removal from the county children's home.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson sent the chubby little girl to the home last January following a dispute between her mother and the man who claimed to be her father over custody of the child.

The application of George G. Fisher, Mansfield, the grandfather, for custody of the girl will be heard Nov. 14 in probate court. Judge Anderson will then decide whether she can go to live with her grandparents or must stay in the children's home.

Mother Died in August.

Her mother, Helen Fisher, who sought custody of her daughter, died last August. She had been divorced from her husband and restored to her former name.

Involved in the court battle last year were the mother and Paul Mason of Iberia, Morrow county, who sought custody of Vonda Jean on the grounds that he was her father. He had no proof of parentage, however, and Judge Anderson turned down the request for custody.

The mother previously had obtained release of the girl from Mason on a writ of habeas corpus. She contended that the child had gone to visit Mason and he refused to let her return. The court ordered release of the child and it was then that Judge Anderson sent her to the children's home to settle the dispute over her.

HARD ON COTTON

TULARE, Cal. —(U.P.)— Cotton has a tough time of it in California, despite the fact that the big crops wouldn't indicate it. Airplane dusting, however, has been found to kill all these pests.

FLAWLESS BEAUTY DECLARED TO BE WOMAN'S HANDICAP

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Unusual beauty in women can be a liability rather than an asset, according to Miss Elizabeth MacDonald Osborne of Boston university.

The noted consultant on women's problems said she had studied great women in history and found that almost everyone of them had one or two imperfections in their facial features. But they developed their other good points, she added.

"Cleopatra won Mark Anthony from his wife who was many times more beautiful than the Egyptian queen," said Miss Osborne. "Cleopatra is not even considered beautiful—but she did have a beautifully modulated voice and always desired to please."

Contending that men dislike women with extreme beauty, Miss Osborne added:

"They prefer a woman with average good looks, health, mystery, and a warm and sympathetic nature. I have found that extremely good looking co-eds in college need more philosophy than other girls.

"The beautiful women rest on their laurels of pulchritude and when they reach the age of 40 they find they no longer can attract persons because they have lost their beauty."

Miss Osborne said women still live in an age where they are a decorative element—not in the sense that they must be beautiful, but rather in a particular individual fashion. She continued:

"In this country we are expected to be attractive, and it is more important to look attractive than to be attractive. A smart woman will learn to select and do things that will make her look attractive in her own particular way."

Warning women not to copy others, Miss Osborne said that most people are dull and uninteresting because they are pale copies of successful individuals. She listed five reasons why women fail to make good impressions, namely:

1. They develop unpleasant qualities.
2. They have lost self-esteem.
3. They are afraid of what others will say and think.
4. They are lazy.
5. They have a negative and uncooperative philosophy of life.

SPUR FINAL O. K. ON NEUTRALITY

Senate, House Leaders Setting Stage for Adjournment as Embargo's Repealed.

take title to the goods before they leave American docks, where many supplies now are piled. They must be transported in foreign ships, for a major purpose of the legislation is to avoid "incidents" by keeping American vessels and passengers out of war zones.

Yesterday's house voting brought greater margins for the administration than even its lieutenants had expected. Three roll calls capped a stirring session that saw Speaker Bankhead leave his rostrum to make an unusual plea for lifting the four-year-old embargo. He received a tremendous ovation from Democrats and Republicans alike.

With galleries packed and many senators on hand, opponents also brought up their leading orators to advise against taking a step which they contended would bring the United States nearer to war.

A motion by Rep. Shanley (D., Conn.) to instruct the house conferees to incorporate the existing embargo on shipment of arms, ammunition and implements of war was rejected, 243 to 181.

By 245 to 179, a margin of 66, the house turned back a proposal by Rep. Vorys (R., Ohio) for the modified embargo which it approved last June. This would ban virtually all arms and other war equipment except commercial planes. Favoring it yesterday were 146 Republicans, 31 Democrats and two Progressives; against it were 221 Democrats, 22 Republicans, one Farmer-Laborite and one American-Laborite.

The first roll call rejected, 228 to 196, a proposal by Rep. Wolcott (R., Mich.) for a specific prohibition against the Export-Import bank and similar federal agencies extending any credits to belligerents. As passed by the senate, the bill prohibits any "person" in the United States from making loans to belligerents.

500 Planes Ready to Be Shipped to Allies.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Five hundred warplanes, built in the United States for Great Britain and France, are ready for shipment the minute repeal of the existing United States arms embargo becomes law, government sources disclosed today.

The planes, chiefly bombers, have been rushed to completion since President Roosevelt imposed the embargo against Europe's warring nations on September 6 and in recent weeks have been shipped to east coast and other ports ready for transportation to Europe in British and French ships.

Exactly where the planes are stored has been kept secret, but it was learned they have been moving cross country from Pacific coast and other manufacturing centers by rail and water. In addition, some have been flown to points in eastern Canada for shipment.

Ports which have received the bulk of the aircraft for transshipment were said to be Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Galveston, Houston, Port Arthur and Mobile.

The 500 warplanes represent the unfilled portion of British and French orders for 900 ships placed some time before the embargo was invoked. About 400 of the total order were delivered before September 6.

Embargo's Repeal Cheers British, French.

LONDON —(AP)— Great Britain and France, with piles of supplies waiting in the United States, learned jubilantly that only last-minute formalities stand in the way of writing the embargo off the American statute book.

News that the house of representatives had set the stage for lifting of the embargo by rejecting proposals for keeping the embargo in United States neutrality legislation arrived in Berlin too late for immediate newspaper comment and government sources refused to comment.

In London, the news rated top headlines such as the Mirror's "The United States Does It" and the News-Chronicle's "United States Finally Approves Arms Ban Repeal."

In Paris, the newspaper Excelsior saw the step as a renewal of the American World war slogan, "Lafayette, we are here," although it stressed that the inference was not to be drawn that "the United States is entering with us in battle."

"We demand no more," it explained, "than the right to buy supplies in the United States and transport them to France in French ships."

U. S. Risks Dangers Of War, Berlin Says.

BERLIN — (N. — Belief that the United States has risked eventual involvement in Europe's war by congressional repeal of the arms embargo was expressed in Berlin today.

While Nazi officialdom withheld formal comment until President Roosevelt has signed the repeal measure, the conviction was voiced that America has further jeopardized her neutrality.

"Grave war risks are entailed in wholesale delivery of arms and planes," one spokesman said. Authentic quarters laid stress on Mr. Roosevelt's reported remark that ocean boundaries are not sufficient to keep the United States out of war.

German newspapers openly charged that British propaganda played a major role in repeal of the embargo. They cited in particular the case of the British freighter Coulmore to whose aid American coast guard cutters and planes were sent after receipts of an apparently erroneous report that she was being attacked by a submarine.

OFFERS TO TEAR UP CAR RAILS

Pittsburgh Firm Agrees to Fix Park Avenue West If It Can Have Tracks.

his firm would remove the rails without cost if given the steel. In addition the company would furnish the bricks and repave that section of the street torn up.

City officials said that it appeared like a pretty good proposition—not only for the city but for Painter.

As Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist looks at it, the city could get the old rails torn up without cost, thereby saving several thousand dollars and at the same time eliminating a traffic hazard.

On the other hand, Painter would not be losing either, Nist pointed out. With scrap steel selling around $14 a ton and with an estimated 270 tons of rails in the street from Main street to Linden road, he probably would get close to $4,000 for the tracks.

What Nist wants is a guarantee from the firm that the repaving job will meet specifications set by the city engineering department.

Lumbermens Chairman Gets a Birthday Cake

Whatever it was, E. S. Nail (left) probably won't get his wish because nobody could blow out 80 candles with one breath. In fact, it took several "blows." The big birthday cake was presented to him yesterday by W. H. G. Kegg, secretary of Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company, and was shared with 90 employes of the company which Mr. Nail founded 44 years ago.

GAMBLING HIT

Telephone Services Removed From Illinois 'Bookies.'

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— The government dealt a "death blow" today to an estimated 2,000 Illinois racing handbooks by cutting off their telephone service and said it foreshadowed crippling of the vest network of handbooks throughout the country.

U. S. District Attorney William J. Campbell and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney had issued a joint ultimatum to the Illinois Bell Telephone company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company to cease service to distributors of race betting information.

They said failure to comply would be considered tantamount to conspiracy to violate federal and state laws.

They had decided on the ultimatum on the basis of lottery indictments voted by a federal grand jury last summer against M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, and his associates in operation of news services which dominate the horse racing information field.

OHIO JURIST DIES

CAMBRIDGE—(U.P.)—Judge Milton H. Turner of the Guernsey county common pleas court, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home today.

NAIL HONORED BY EXECUTIVES

Pay Tribute to Founder on His 80th Birthday and Company's 44th.

A big birthday cake, topped with 80 lighted candles, was presented to E. S. Nail, chairman of the board of Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company, by employes of the company yesterday.

The occasion was his 80th birthday anniversary as well as a reminder that he had organized the company just 44 years ago. The company came into being in October, 1895, with Mr. Nail as its president. He held that office until 1933, when he became chairman of the board. Charles H. Keating succeeded him as president and still holds that office.

The company's first offices were in the I. O. O. F. building, North Diamond street, but it outgrew these quarters and in 1901 moved to the Dickson building. In 1906 the company again found it necessary to move and went into new quarters on Geddes Hill at the northern edge of the city—now Lumbermens Hill. Since 1906 the office space has increased many times its original proportions, as the company has grown into a national concern. The incorporators of the company in 1895 were Mr. Nail, the late S. N. Ford, M. E. Douglas, E. H. Houston and Henry C. Hedges all of Mansfield; S. F. Wolfe of Athens, and L. R. Hawes of Columbus.

Mr. Nail has two hobbies in which he is tremendously interested — farming and race horses. He owns 800 acres of farm land in Richland county and supervises all of it. He owns several race horses, too, and is enthusiastic about the "sport of kings."

The big birthday cake was presented to him yesterday by W. H. G. Kegg, secretary of the company, and was shared with 90 employes.

RUSSIA HURLS WAR THREATS

Claim Erkko's Remarks Invite Armed Conflict, Liken Stand to That of Poland.

lands, they were licking the boots of Czarist Russia. Now, when we ask for only one naval base, they are screaming protests.

"We know that in doing so they are meeting the request of their western bosses."

The article dealing with negotiations for concessions which Russia has asked of her little Baltic neighbor came on the day a Finnish delegation was expected to start its final discussions at the Kremlin.

Foreign circles had interpreted Erkko's speech Wednesday night as conciliatory in tone and foresaw an early settlement of the Russian requests, but the Pravda article used the strongest language yet employed publicly in the four-week negotiations.

Citing the fact that Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania already had signed mutual assistance pacts with Russia, Pravda said:

"Attempts to deny the mutual advantages of these agreements for all their signatories are made only by their common enemies interested in fomenting war not only in western but in eastern Europe as well, particularly on the Balkan coast."

It said that "naturally, the government of the U. S. S. R. was bound to address similar proposals to the fourth Baltic country bordering on the U. S. S. R.—Finland.

"It is sufficient to glance at the map of Finland to realize that the problems of security of the U. S. S. R. are especially acute on the Finnish border.

"The Soviet union not only has the right but is obliged to take measures to assure security of the sea and land approaches to Leiningrad, whose population equals the entire population of Finland.

"The government of Finland cannot avoid considering these interests and rights of the U. S. S. R."

Pravda declared Russia had met Finland halfway on all important questions, mentioning that Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotov Tuesday told the supreme Soivet that Russia had not insisted on a mutual assistance pact because Finland believed such a pact was incompatible with her position of absolute neutrality.

"In exchange for territories on the Karelian Isthmus and certain other areas, vitally necessary for the security of the U. S. S. R.," said Pravda, "we offered Finland territory of double size in Soviet Karelia.

"The proposal for creation of a naval base for the Soviet at the northern entrance of the Gulf of Finland meets not only the interests of the Soviet union but those of Finland herself, fully securing the Gulf of Finland against hostile actions on the part of third states.

"However, contrary to common sense, certain leaders of Finland express no desire at all to reach an agreement with the U. S. S. R."

Defiant Finland Keeps Stand Intact.

HELSINGFORS, Finland —(U.P.)—Finland gave every indication today that it would resist Russian territorial demands.

Its man power was mobilized; its cities barricaded, and there was no lessening of the tension now that a five-man Finnish delegation was back in Moscow to "negotiate."

The feeling here was that the negotiators would confine themselves to handing Soviet Premier Viacheslav Molotov a written reply to the demands, inform him of Finland's attitude toward his Tuesday night speech in which he made the demands public, and then return home while the Finnish government determined its future course.

The situation was causing growing concern throughout Europe.

(At London, the Moscow radio was heard at 6 a. m. today, announcing that Foreign Minister Ejas Erkko had "delivered an open threat of war against the Soviet Union" in his speech of Wednesday night, in which he said that Finland would "resist any attempted territorial penetration by Russia." The Moscow radio also charged that most Finnish newspapers referred to the "hostile nature" of Molotov's speech.)

CORN HUSKERS COMPETE TODAY

100,000 Expected to Watch State Champions Husk for National Honors.

Next year's contest will be at Davenport, Ia. Nebraska will have the 1942 event although the location has not been determined. A delegation from Kearney, Neb., is in Lawrence seeking the contest.

To handle the crowd local officers and highway patrolmen recruited 2,500 deputies and police from neighboring cities. They expected at least 35,000 vehicles from a score of states.

Offering only a trophy and $100 in cash, the national husking bee has grown from an Iowa affair, started by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace out of curiosity in 1924, to agriculture's premier sporting event.

Wallace had an argument with a staff member of his farm paper over the cornhusking speed of a farmer. It developed into a debate on the question: "How much corn can a man husk in a given time?"

"We'll settle the thing," said Wallace. "We'll have a contest to find out."

The event was publicized and about 800 people turned out. Fred Stanek was the winner, husking 14.35 bushels.

Wallace made it an annual affair and since then it has attracted contestants from throughout 11 corn belt states.

would permit selfish minorities to jeopardize the best interests of the majority.

Commending the bill to add a third member to the civil service commission and revise classified service regulations, Governor Bricker said the legislation was in accord with recommendations of the Sherrill government survey report.

"The attempt by referendum to defeat the civil service bill is the effort of those discharged employes appointed by the last administration who thereby hope to reload the state pay rolls to the cost of about $1,000,000 a year," the governor stated.

He estimated at $1,623,000 the reduction of state payrolls through discharge of previously appointed provisionals this year and said, "we need this money for relief and schools."

Both Democrat and Republican platforms have endorsed the state board of education amendment, the governor said. He previously indicated that a special legislative session would be called to create the state board if the proposal were approved by electors.

SENT TO PRISON

Higgins, Former Kansas City Police Head, Sentenced.

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Otto P. Higgins, former director of police when Boss Tom Pendergast ruled Kansas City, pleaded guilty today to federal income tax evasion.

He was sentenced to two years imprisonment and given five years probation on a second count.

Similar pleas last spring brought prison sentences for Pendergast and his henchman, R. E. O'Malley, former state superintendent of insurance.

They are serving terms of over a year at Leavenworth. Also in prison there is Charles Carollo, who collected the "protection lug" from gambling spots.

A grand jury last week indicted Higgins for evading taxes on $65,122 from 1935 to 1938 inclusive.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1939.

Protection of minority rights can surely be accomplished without sacrifice of majority rights.

According to Dr. Dafoe, the Dionne quints know nothing about the war—so they may have been reading the censored reports.

The Toledo Blade has a notion that: "After seizing the City of Flint the natural thing would have been to organize a strike and establish a picket line."

Be Careful In Marking Ballot

ONE THING that every voter should clearly understand, before going to the polls next Tuesday, is that the name BIGELOW does not appear on the ballot in connection with either of the crack-pot proposals which the Cincinnati preacher is presenting.

In order to avoid confusion after reaching the voting booth, voters should note carefully that the Bigelow pension proposal is SECOND on the "questions or issues" ballot, and that an "X" marked in front of "No" indicates the voter's wish to retain sanity in the administration and further development of Ohio's pension system. Secure and study a sample ballot before election day.

In THIRD place, on the same ballot, is the second Bigelow proposal—to make it possible for any 100,000 voters, even from one large city or county, to present a constitutional amendment and put the people of the state to the expense of holding an election on any freak proposals that might be made. For initiating a state law no more than 50,000 signatures would be required.

Present laws give adequate protection of the rights of citizens to invoke direct legislative action. Adoption of the Bigelow scheme would open the way for all sorts of visionary notions to clutter up ballots, as has been the sad experience in California where voters have been confronted by 30 or more "issues" promoted by small minority groups.

To those who may have been misled into believing that it is possible to pay the pensions called for in the Bigelow "plan," it may be said that this CANNOT BE DONE—that industry, business and taxpayers in general would be driven from Ohio; that there would be no jobs for hundreds of thousands of present salary and wage-earners; that the state would become bankrupt and that the present self-sustaining portion of the population would no longer be able to care for themselves, to say nothing of continuing to meet the obligation of supporting pensioners.

Vote "NO" on both of the Bigelow proposals—demonstrate to the people of the United States that a large majority of the citizens of Ohio are entitled to the designation, "intelligent voters," and are able to recognize crackpotism when they see it.

Civic Economy Contest

CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYES of New York City are being consulted on the problem of civic economy. The method is odd. A nonpartisan citizens' committee is asking employes to make suggestions for the elimination of unnecessary city expenditures. Their replies will be graded for feasibility, and thirty cash prizes will be distributed to the most successful suggesters.

Two proposals are banned at the start. General salary cuts and the discontinuance of any essential public service will not be considered. Those things have already been thought of, and the idea now is to avoid them if possible.

"If the suggestions based upon the daily experience of those closest to the working of the city government are fruitful," comments the committee, "the resulting savings may be sufficient to protect the civil service against possible future sacrifice and the public against curtailment of essential city functions. Thus the entire civil service and the public will profit from the contest."

It should be a useful and instructive process, too, for both the civil servants and all interested citizens are likely to give more attention than usual to the city budget, its services, the efficiency of departments and of individuals within departments.

Interlude In European War

FRANCE is said to be releasing 100,000 men from war service. The older men, and those with four or more children, may go home.

This suggests that France has a surplus of man-power for the present situation. It implies that Hitler's Germany is not the menace it was lately believed to be, that continental Europe is not doomed to immediate destruction.

Such procedure sets observers to wondering more than ever about the nature and prospects of this strange war. So far, since the conquest of Poland, it does not look like a war at all, but merely millions of men resting on their arms. There is a little skirmishing on the border between France and Germany, some ships are sunk and there is an occasional air fight, but nearly all of this resembles sparring.

What is going on behind the scenes? Much diplomatic activity, no doubt. When will the curtain be raised, and on what sort of scene? Today the chances of war—a real war—might be rated at 50-50.

Well-Placed Contribution

CONTRIBUTION of $200 by McVey post, American Legion, to the high school band uniform fund sets an excellent example in sensible giving, which some other local organizations and individuals may feel inclined to follow.

Members of the band, and their families, have shown commendable willingness to help raise the approximate $2,500 required to outfit the band in new uniforms, but there is also need for public co-operation such as has been evidenced by the Legion gift.

Desire to perform community service can be no better exemplified than in ways which benefit young people and indicate interest in their welfare.

A California scientist now rather grudgingly admits that there may be life on Mars—when so many folks had assumed that all of the other travelers in space were merely ornaments of the particular planet we happen to be on.

Now that doughnut dunking has been socially sanctioned, a movement is on foot to lift the ban on gravy sopping—described as "an unaesthetic but comforting table technique."

The Montreal Star puts the idea into rhyme, thus: "Who remembers way back when, a man in debt got out again?"

With a $45,000,000,000 debt hanging over them, the real question is whether taxpayers could afford a third term.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Pierre Van Paassen speaks English with a sort of Holland-French accent, and if you have never listened to him talk informally to a crowd of men you have missed a lot of fun. He is the author of "Days of Our Years," a thoughtful, sometimes cynical account of a foreign correspondent who has spent 20 years going to the wars and writing about them.

By some awful mischance, the title of his book was first announced as "Dogs of Our Years," and some of us thought Van Paassen had written a treatise on pets. You see him around Broadway occasionally, and a few nights afterward you pick him up on a short-wave broadcast from Paris. He gets around like that.

A strange writer and one who seems at times disillusioned is Pierre. You never get that idea talking with him. He can stand with his weight on one foot, and one hand on the back of a chair, and rattle off the most amazing, yet authentic anecdotes about the great personalities of the world for hours at a time. I have listened to many, many informal speakers. I never heard anybody I liked on sight quite so well as Van Paassen.

HIS book, just now, is in tremendous favor, and if you haven't read it you aren't following the must list. He is one of five or six young men whom circumstance and a war in Europe have made into a vogue. Another of these is John Gunther, who writes steady, calm, and at times absorbing prose.

In conversation he seems excited, but that is only the peculiar pitch of his voice. Current events largely determine most people's readings, but even if there wasn't hellzapoppin in the English Channel, "Inside Europe" and "Inside Asia" would be so important that your own intelligence would compel you to read them. Gunther puts a handle on Europe so you can tote it around like a bag.

Like Gunther and Van Paassen, Vincent Sheean is another newspaperman who quit the city room to roam far continents in pursuit of armies. There have been many accounts of what happened in Munich, and what occurred in those last days in Prague, before Czechoslovakia lost its identity. Some have been blunt and factual. Others have been sentimental.

None quite catches the lost heights of mélancholy and the bewildered numb despair that Sheean saw in the eyes of those people and transposed to the pages of "Not Peace But a Sword." Vincent Sheean is in New York just now—not Europe. Reason: his wife has just had a baby.

THERE are others—John Whitaker, who was at Munich, too, and who begged his publishers to send him to South America. He believed that Nazi or Fascist penetration would become evident in the Latin republics, and his observations—after a year of traveling from one South American country to another—are set down in "Americas to the South." Whitaker, too, is a newspaper man—sometimes out of Chicago, sometimes out of New York. He has another book, "And Fear Came," which reports the Ethiopian war as he saw it.

Timely Editorial

This Sounds Sensible.

Larry MacPhail, the genial Scot who introduced to major league baseball such innovations as swing bands, night games, and chorus girl dance routines, has repeatedly shocked to its solid concrete foundations the dignified hierarchy which controls baseball.

But it is to be doubted if he ever gave that group of gentlemen a greater jolt than that afforded by his most recent proposal, to-wit: That the world's series be turned into a 16-club free-for-all to decide which of the big leagues really is the better.

The first comments from the club presidents have indicated they were somewhat aghast, but the more we think about Mr. McPhail's suggestion, the more it appeals to us. At present the world's series has become an annual contest between the New York Yankees and some other club, in which the Yankees let the opposition live just as long as it amuses them to do so, then destroy it. This has continued so long that the world is growing rather weary of it.—Kansas City Times.

Health And Diet

More Questions Are Answered

—By DR. CLENDENING

WHAT climates will prevent sinus disease? Now that winter is coming on, the question is important.

There is no ideal climate where sinus disease does not exist. Any change in climate is likely to benefit a sinus sufferer, for a while. Thus, those who live in the mountains may do better for a while at the seashore, and the seashore dweller is improved by high altitude. Wherever there is plenty of ultra-violet radiation is a good climate for sinus, and in children such radiation cleans up small residual infections.

During the winter the best climate for the patient with sinus disease is a warm climate with moderate changes and a minimum amount of rainfall: desere regions—Arizona, Texas, New Mexico or California.

For the best results the change should be continued a long time. It is foolish to expect a radical improvement in a patient with chronic sinus disease in a month's sojourn. The more chronic the case, the longer the stay should be. Disappointing recurrence may follow an early return to the patient's native city. When improvement in a certain climate has occurred one year, plans should be made for a return a second year, especially in children, because the coulds of childhood may interrupt the natural anatomical development of the nasal sinuses.

What effect does milk have on the teeth?

The teeth need calcium. According to Dr. Dorothea F. Radurch, of Minneapolis, "unless the diet includes a pint of milk each day, or its equivalent in cheese, it is almost impossible to satisfy the calcium requirements of the body. Adults commonly omit milk, believing they can meet requirements with fruit and vegetables. Butter, although a milk product, contains no calcium, whereas it takes one and one-half cups of 20 per cent coffee cream to equal the calcium in one cup of milk."

What is the treatment of disfiguring pimples on the face in young people?

Acne, the occurrence of disfiguring pimples on the face, is particularly a disease of young people at the age of puberty. It is doubly cruel in this respect because just when romance begins to blossom, the pimples also blossom.

The cause of acne is not easy to state—many factors enter into the picture. The pimples occur usually at the site of the opening of the oil glands in the skin. The oil tube gets plugged, the secretions are dammed back and infection is then easily added.

An oily condition of the skin, disturbance of the ductless glands at this age period, perhaps errors in diet, all contribute to the production of acne.

Success has followed the use of pituitary, thyroid and other glandular extracts.

The following foods are to be avoided: pork; all preserved, salted, canned, spiced meats and fish; crabs, lobster, shrimp, crawfish, salmon; veal, goose liver; hard-boiled eggs; fresh breads, hot biscuits, hot rolls, waffles, fritters, oatmeal; cheese pastry, sweets, candy, fried meats, potatoes, breads, acid fruits and drinks; very hot or very cold dishes.

Let Down Your Nets.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DISCOURAGED? Feel that life has been a shallow, futile performance? Ready to quit in disgust?

Other men have felt that. Once there were three fishermen—Simon and James and John. All night they had fished, up and down the shore, but had caught nothing. With the morning their spirits were as empty as their nets. So they took their nets and spread them to dry and sat down, idle-handed.

And a young man came by—a young man who was wise about tides and men and the deep, secret places of the sea.

He sat and talked in a friendly way with them, quietly observing their idle hands, their empty spirits, their drying nets. And he listened to the story of their fruitless night.

Then, very simply, but in such a way that His force ran through them in a quickening fire, Jesus said: "LAUNCH OUT INTO THE DEEP AND LET DOWN YOUR NETS FOR A DRAUGHT."

They must have stared at each other when He said that, thinking how foolish and unreasonable people could be who knew nothing about fishing. But there was something in His manner which stilled their argument. So presently Simon said, sighing a little at the hopelessness of the thing:

"Master, we have toiled all night and have taken nothing; nevertheless at Thy word I will let down the net."

So they left the shallows in which they had been wont to fish and they launched into the deep which they had avoided.

"And when they had this done, they enclosed a great multitude of fishes, and their net brake."

DISCOURAGED? Ready to quit in disgust? Sitting beached—empty-spirited, idle-handed?

LAUNCH OUT INTO THE DEEP!

Leave the beach of your discouragements and discontent—

Gather up the idle nets of your energy and imagination, courage and initiative—

Gather up your nets and leave the shallows where you have been wont to fish—

THRUST OUT FROM THE LAND INTO THE DEEP PLACES OF THE SEA—

Into the vast, rough adventures of love and pain, terror and bliss, danger and death—

Face the great combers and the dark troughs of experience—

Dare the wind and the thunder and the lightning and ruthless currents of fate—

CAST YOUR NETS INTO THE DEEP—

THERE IS ABUNDANCE IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE TO TAKE IT!

An Eel Tale

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHILE walking along the border of a pond one morning, when there was heavy dew on the grass, I saw two objects move rapidly before me. I followed cautiously, thinking it might be young rabbits, or weasels. I ran until I came so close that I stepped on the tail of what I took to be a snake, 20 inches long. I set my foot more firmly and drew the tall grass away just in time to see him slip clear of my hobnailed shoe. It was an eel that had crawled out from the pond and was going toward a small stream. I noticed the blunt extremity, the long continuous dorsal finn, and the gills just back of the mouth. I had never seen them travel over land before.

I learned later that when the migrating urge takes possession of these creatures in upland lakes and rivers, in springs or even aquariums, after they have attained an age of ten years or more, they escape their peaceful bonds and move rapidly, by any means they can, toward the ocean. They are never seen again.

Their romantic journey terminates in the waters about the Bermuda Islands, where is located the spawning ground for eels of all the world. To this same vicinity come eels from shores of Iceland, from North American seaboard, from rivers and lakes of South America; from Scandinavian coasts, the coast of England, the Mediterranean waters and the northern rivers of Africa they come to spawn and rear their young.

The European species have a longer childhood, and when mature enough, they always go to Europe. Never was a foreign eel found in North American waters. Wise Nature guides them to their mother's native home. The paternal eel matures three years later than his mate, and never attains her size. She sometimes weighs as much as 25 pounds.

When I was just a lad, I often saw eels two feet long in our gushing spring. Sometimes my father caught them in his hands with a flannel cloth to keep them from slipping away. I watched him sever the head and hang the eel up on a hook, then pull the skin off like an inverted garment. When it was cut in lengthy portions and fried in the big skillet I was frightened at the acrobatics of the pieces which wriggled and twisted in the heat. I would not partake of the feast, then, but when curiosity overcame my qualms I tasted it and found it delectable.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Paul McNutt will be the last man to talk about it, but he and Francis Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippines, put across a neat double-play to prevent Secretary Ickes from really running the Philippines.

Under the new reorganization plan, Roosevelt concentrated insular affairs under the interior department, transferring the Philippines from the war department to interior, which already handles Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands.

But newly appointed High Commissioner Sayre did not seem to like this. He came down to the interior department and demanded a large area of office space—which he did not get. Also it was quite apparent that Ickes, when put in charge of the Philippines, would really run the Philippines, and Sayre did not like this either.

So High Commissioner Sayre got together with ex-High Commissioner McNutt and drafted a letter for the president's signature by which the Philippines virtually were taken out of Ickes hands. The letter instructed Sayre to report direct to the president.

Then they got Roosevelt to sign the letter, partly by giving the impression that Frank Murphy, also an ex-high commissioner to the Philippines, had approved it.

Murphy, however, had not. And the other day, after cabinet meeting, he stopped Ickes, who has become one of his best friends, and said he had just learned of the letter.

"I'm absolutely against the idea," he told his cabinet colleague.

However, it was too late. The Philippines, though nominally under Ickes, have been euchered out from under him.

Vandenberg's Home Town.

ONE of the administration's most effective weapons in the house neutrality battle was supplied by the home town of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, leading defender of the arms embargo.

It consists of a full-page advertisement in the Grand Rapids Herald, of which Vandenberg once was editor and publisher, vigorously calling on congress to repeal the arms embargo in order to preserve the peace of the country. The ad was paid for and signed by 76 of the principal businessmen of the city.

Among the first names on the list was that of John Wood Blodgett, multi-millionaire philanthropist and treasurer of the Vandenberg-for-President club.

"Young Dr. Townsend."

The next time tall, stately Representative Dudley White of Ohio introduces a stranger to his fellow-Ohioan Representative Clarence J. Brown, Mr. Brown, a first-termer, is going to be more cagy about what he says.

White, who is a prankster beneath his dignified exterior, was chatting in the house lobby with a newsman. Just then Congressman Brown joined the group, and Congressman White introduced the reporter, naming him "Bruce Townsend, son of old Doc Townsend."

Brown, who had voted against the Townsend old-age pension bill, eyed "Bruce Townsend" uneasily.

"Yes, Clarence," continued White casually, "Bruce is down here checking up on the boys who voted against his father's old-age pension bill. Seems they plan to do something about it next election."

Brown, who is a Republican, swallowed hard. "Don't blame the Republicans for that defeat," he remarked nervously. "The onus belongs on the Democrats. They are really responsible. If they hadn't brought up the bill under such a drastic rule which barred amendments, I would have gone along with you folks. I admire your father very much and sincerely hope he holds no hard feelings against me. Yes, sir, I'm all for helping our senior citizens..."

Brown continued until White interrupted with this grave observation. "Well, 'Bruce,' I don't blame you for sticking by your old man, even if he is a crackpot rabble-rouser."

Eyes popping, Brown looked at White and the grinning newsman. Then, snorting, he dashed off.

AFL Worry.

BEHIND that mysterious conference between Attorney General Murphy and leaders of the American Federation of Labor was a great secret AFL fear.

They had suddenly realized that the justice department's attack upon monopoly in the building industry might nullify one of their principal weapons in fighting the CIO — jurisdictional strikes and boycotts.

The AFL has used these tactics with telling effect in various sections, particularly the Pacific Northwest, where Dave Beck, regional teamster boss, forced the lumber industry to a virtual standstill by refusing to handle timber cut or milled by CIO members.

When Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, hard-hitting head of the Anti-Trust division, launched the building industry cleanup, the AFL generalissimos expected it to be a routine affair aimed at contractors and manufacturers. When Arnold made it known that he also was going after racketeering, they still were undisturbed.

In fact, AFL President Green, long a foe of labor racketeering, privately approved Arnold's plan. But when the first flurry of grand jury indictments disclosed that boycotts and jurisdictional strikes were to be placed in the same category with price-fixing and other monopolistic operations, AFL bosses hit the ceiling.

At a stormy executive council meeting, Dan Tobin, teamster president, scathingly waded into Green. There has been bitter feeling between the two for years and Tobin poured it on hot and heavy. In the end, it was decided to send a delegation of building trade leaders to Murphy to demand that he call off Arnold.

Murphy assured them the cleanup was "not directed against labor," but beyond this he refused to go. He has said nothing to Arnold about soft-pedaling and Arnold is continuing to let the chips fall where they may. To the ex-Yale law professor, a law violation is illegal whether on the part of labor or business.

German Army.

REPORTS on the German army relayed here by U. S. official observers indicate that Hitler has one of the most superb fighting forces in the world.

While its training and morale are no better than the French army's, it is superior in two highly important things — mechanization and skill in using it. The latter is especially important. For the use of sub-machine guns and other modern war weapons is not like firing the ordinary army rifle.

To put under-trained British youngsters in the trenches with these modern guns would be suicide, according to military experts. This is one reason the British are calling no more men to the colors. They have reached their training capacity for the time being.

RATION SYSTEM IS IMPOSED ON BRITISH AUTOIST

He Gets From 4 to 10 Gallons Monthly, Depending on Car's Horsepower.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Three million British motor car drivers are now under a wartime gasoline rationing system.

Every driver in the United Kingdom must present a ration book to the filling station attendant to be punched before he can buy his week's allotment of gas.

The rationing scheme conserves Britain's reserve stocks of gasoline, now vital for successful prosecution of the war and places every automobile owner on a basis of equality.

The amount of gasoline issued depended on the horse power of the car.

Standard Quality.

The gasoline being sold today was of one standard quality called "pool petrol." It sold for one shilling, six pence (about 38 cents at pre-war exchange rates) a gallon

The rationing system has been based on a system of units of gasoline. The unit in use today is the gallon. The number of gallons allowed to an individual motorist depends on the number of horsepower of his car.

Motorcyclists will be allowed but two gallons of gasoline a month

The owner of a four-cylinder Ford here estimated that he will be able to drive 45 miles every week on his ration.

It was also estimated that a driver with a 20 h. p. car doing 18 miles to the gallon will with ten gallons get a mileage of 180. But the owner of a 30 h. p. car doing 14 miles per gallon will get only 140 miles.

One by-product of the gas rationing which will be welcomed by the authorities is that it will still further keep cars off the roads at night during blackouts.

Motorists have found driving conditions extremely difficult, with all street lights extinguished and car lights reduced to a point where not even a glimmer is shown on the pavement. Bumpers and fenders have been painted white to show up better in the darkness

CHAPTER XVI

Then abruptly a strident voice broke in on them.

It was Eva Sheen, in a tight-fitting oyster-white wool suit, with the merest pill box of a white straw hat on the side of her dyed auburn hair. Now, every one in the count's box must take his gaze off the track or, as in the case of Rita and the count, each other. They must listen to Eva's insipid chatter. They all did—reluctantly but politely.

Rita was filled with irritation again. The sight of Eva reminded her of too much that was past. Unfortunately, Rita admired a large sapphire on Eva's left hand, a mistake which she immediately regretted.

Eva seemed to be battling self-consciousness. Then she blurted out, "I saw an old friend of yours in Sun Valley, Rita. You knew auntie and I were there all last month?"

"Oh—yes," came from Rita, instantly on the defensive.

"Yes—Tom Cleveland. We had a perfectly grand time. He taught me to ski, and a few fancy skating tricks. Too bad you couldn't have been along, darling. But in that case, I wouldn't have had a clear field, would I? Now—everything's okey doke!"

She glanced down at the ring on her finger and blushed.

Roger looked outrageousiy pleased. "Good work," he told her. "You and the Cleveland millions will be a dandy combination."

"How else could a poor girl find her niche in the world?" laughed Eva, and flung away from them to rejoin her aunt behind the press box.

Gone now was the slight interest Rita might have taken in the handsome count, over the exhilerating, vibrant life on all sides of her. The hint of mimosa and wild lilac far away on the hillside, the lazy little breeze fanning her flushed cheeks, had suddenly become unbearable. Eva—was going to marry Tom Cleveland!

As eighteen mettlesome thoroughbreds paraded to the post for the start of a handicap, which had been the talk of the racing world for days, all eyes were fastened on them, even Rita's. But her mind was elsewhere. She seemed to be watching the start with bated breath as the crowd in the grandstand was doing, but actually she scarcely realized what was taking place.

She felt limp with a kind of despair that nothing could allay, and certainly no vestige of a thrill could she summon when the beautiful horses and their colorful jockeys sped past the grandstand and then raced again into the homestretch. A plucky little horse, which hadn't been given much of a chance by the experts, was in the lead and fought on to win to a roar of applause from the crowd. Recording cameras clicked as he flashed past the finish line.

"By jove! That was a race!" exclaimed Count Waddington, turning abruptly to the blankly staring Rita.

"What—er yes—a real race," she floundered desperately.

The count looked puzzled.

"Perhaps you don't get a—a kick, as you people express it—out of races."

Rita quickly reassembled her wits, became all eager smiles.

"Indeed I do. I've always loved horses—ridden all my life."

"That reminds me, Rita," cut in Roger. "Father bought a couple of keen-looking bays yesterday—for us to ride."

A foolish sort of trembling seized Rita. She got out unsteadily, "He did? How—how thoughtful! But he shouldn't have counted me in on it. I've so little time to ride. Your mother . . ."

"That's where you're wrong. You know what a peach Selia is." His mother encouraged the modern way of addressing parents. "She wants us to ride every morning before breakfast—thinks you need the exercise."

Rita swallowed the lump in her throat.

"That's—sweet of her," she told him hesitantly, and flicked an imaginary speck from the skirt of her navy suit, readjusted the big green orchid on its lapel—an orchid from the Brewster greenhouse.

"Now, how can I rival anything so romantic? Early morning canters when the dew is on the rose," protested the scowling count, as if it greatly mattered to him.

"Dew?" scoffed Roger. "I've never seen dew in this country."

"Come, come, man—when have you ever been up that early?" pleasantly taunted the count.

* * *

Selia Brewster, in the back of the box, now rose and the other guests of the count arose too. On the way out of the grandstand they were joined by Hank Bleckman and Donald Avery, looking decidedly woebegone.

"Can't pick 'em, eh?" sang out Roger bantingly.

"We put our rolls on the favorite," moaned Hank.

Selia Brewster, elegantly slim in her black broadcloth suit, laughed above a wide rim of silver fox collar, and paced them all back to the car with the agility of a debutante.

Rita thought, "What a wonderfully well-preserved woman Selia is!" and began exerting herself to be as frivolously entertaining as a young woman should in the company of four attractive men, and a courageous woman who refused to acknowledge middle age.

With relief, Rita finally found herself in her own luxurious suite at the Brewster's, one of the finest in the elegantly-appointed forty-room house. Any other secretary would have been enchanted with such a sitting-room, all pink and gray and white, its soft pink and gray curtains hanging straight to the floor, the gray chiffon-draped valance caught with braided pink chiffon.

But Rita had done with admiring external things for the present. There was too much at stake in her life that counted far more, although just now it all seemed hopelessly confused.

She walked slowly over the lovely white Cambodian rug and on into her dainty bedroom. She flung her hat carelessly on a pink velour chair, sighed heavily, and sank down on the edge of the bed.

Then all at once she was lying full length on it, beneath the canopy of bridal veil net and point de Brussels lace, her racking sobs muffled in the delicate lace and silk coverlet.

The first man she had ever loved was going to marry Eva Sheen! If Eva were the right sort for the best man in the world to marry, it wouldn't be so bad. But why was she putting Tom Cleveland on a high pedestal when that shooting on the beach had never been cleared up? Why couldn't she use some common sense? But she couldn't, she couldn't! Common sense and love were too far apart.

Immediately after this emotional upheaval, Rita began the fight of her life. A fight to find something to be interested in, to live for. She had never dreamed that love could be like this. Love that all the poets raved about, sang so eloquently of, was the cruelest torment she had ever known. Oh, it wasn't fair, it wasn't right that the most beautiful thing in the world held this sharp thorn of pain!

But there was nothing she could do to alter it. She had to go on, daily pretending, smirking, amidst the animated atmosphere constantly surrounding Selia Brewster's immediate vicinity.

City's New Building Continues Record Pace, Tops $2,000,000

Valuation of new construction in Mansfield for the first 10 months of 1939 shot past the $2,000,000 mark today to establish another all-time record.

Paced by a unprecedented residential construction program that has surpassed all previous years, valuations for all building projects so far this year total $2,054,634, more than $1,000,000 above the valuations for the corresponding period of 1938.

October building valuations were $103,190, a decrease of $104,000 from the September figures of $207,000. It was an increase however of $2,000 over the valuation of October, 1938.

Twenty-one residential building permits were issued last month as compared with 25 for the month preceding. Total cost of the new homes last month was $86,450 while the September figure was $119,000.

EVERY 'STRAD' NOT REAL THING

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— If your hope of sudden wealth rests in a violin case labeled Stradivari, 1716, you may as well abandon it.

Kenneth Warren, violin appraiser for a national music instrument firm, counsels:

"It is significant that of all the hundreds of so-called Cremonese violins that have been brought in for appraisal not a single genuine instrument has ever been found.

ENGLISH TALES LISTED AS NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

Non-Fiction Work Tells Part Danube River Plays in European Affairs.

Three English tales and a story of a gallant Scotchman who sacrificed a fortune to follow the woman he loved to a new country will be found in the new fiction which goes into circulation tomorrow at the Public library.

A timely story of the European pattern and one of the world's greatest telescope are included in the non-fiction list.

Humphrey Pakington's novel, FAMILY ALBUM, is a delightful English chronicle of the life of Johnny Bartlett from his birth in the Victorian days of 1889 to the present time of international upheaval. The character of his Grandmother Brunswick dominates the book. She is a stout old lady intent on managing her family and enjoying "fairy cakes."

ANOTHER CYNTHIA by Doris Leslie tells of Cynthia Bright's rise from obscurity as an innkeeper's daughter and household servant to become the toast and beauty of London a century ago.

Norah Loft's colorful story of Philip Ollenshaw, BLOSSOM LIKE THE ROSE, relates the experiences of a Scot who forfeited his inheritance to follow the woman he loved to America in the seventeenth century. He joined a band of Puritans and helped carve a state from the wilderness.

Four other novels are on the list: CONFIDENTIAL AGENT, Greene; LOST SUNRISE, Norris; ESCAPE, Vance, and UNCLE FRED IN THE SPRINGTIME, Wodehouse.

We have watched with great interest news of the construction of the 200-inch telescope in California. David O. Woodbury has written the story of the twelve-year endeavor behind this marvel of engineering, in GLASS GIANT OF PALOMAR. He includes many details about the experiments made so that the actual production of the Pyrex disc would be successful. We meet the men who have persevered against all odds in this painstaking task.

Emil Lengyel writes the history of a river which has played an important part in European politics, THE DANUBE. He suggests that the river was intended by nature to make neighbors, not enemies, and shows that federation, not nationalism, is the solution for the many peoples mingled in its broad, rich valley.

POISONS, POTIONS AND PROFITS by Peter Morell offers an antidote to radio advertising. The author deals directly with the claims of hundreds of patent medicines, supplying the analyses made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Consumers' Union and medical societies.

Other non-fiction this week includes:

MEN UNDER THE SEA, Ellsberg; NO FRIENDLY VOICE, Hutchins; IN A WORD, Ernst; ONE GENERATION AND ANOTHER, Wicks; ART OF BIRD WATCHING, Nicholson, and STORY OF PROPHECY, Forman.

QUEEN ANNE BOLEYN, Hackett; RAIN UPON GODSHILL, Priestly; COLOR AND SUCCESSION OF BLOOM IN THE FLOWER GARDEN, Ortloff and Raymore; PRODUCING IN LITTLE THEATERS, Stratton; DEMOCRATIC SWEDEN, ed. by Cole & Smith; SAVAGE CIVILIZATION by Harrison; and FOREMOST FILMS OF 1938 ed. by Vreeland.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

Girls who like career stories or nurses stores will welcome the new books displayed this week.

"SKY SERVICE" by Elizabeth Hubbard Lansing—Nancy Naylor was a trained nurse and was eager for a real career. When the opportunity came to train as a stewardess for Consolidated Airlines, she knew that was what she had been waiting for. In this story, she takes her training and works for several months as a regular stewardess.

The other books are informational books about different kinds of work. The last three are part of a set all edited by Alice Keliher and a staff of associates.

"The GIRL AND HER JOB," Esther Eberstadt Brook; "NURSES AT WORK," "AIR WORKERS" and "NEWS WORKERS."—MYRA LORIMER.

Indicts 72 In 16-State $20,000,000 Lottery Fraud

FEDERAL JURY NAMES ROGERS MEMORIAL, INC.

Ohioans Among Those Cited In Investigation of Huge Lottery Ring.

(By United Press)

BOSTON — The federal grand jury has indicted 72 individuals and two corporations in connection with a $20,000,000 lottery fraud which allegedly operated for at least 10 years in 16 states, it was announced today.

The indictments, announced by U. S. Attorney Edmund J. Brandon, climaxed a long investigation during which the grand jury witnesses included Mrs. Will Rogers, widow of the humorist, and New York financier Owen D. Young.

The corporations indicted were the Will Rogers Memorial hospital, Inc., and the South Park Credit company, Inc., both of Chicago.

Of the 72 individuals named, only one, Armand Lizotte, 50, of Putnam, Conn., has been arrested.

Brandon said that coincidental with his announcement of the indictments, deputy U. S. marshals and postal inspectors were conducting raids in the 16 states to round up the other defendants.

Besides Illinois and Connecticut, the defendants represented Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The indictments included a total of 119 counts of conspiracy, using the mails to defraud, promotion of fraudulent lotteries, and interstate transportation of lottery tickets.

Among those indicted were:

Abraham F. Zimmerman, 37, Chicago, described as "the big shot." James J. Feak, 40, Toledo, O., manager of the Superior Sports center in Toledo.

Cliff Margolis, 35, Canton, O.

Lee Shapiro, 37, Pittsburgh, listed as principal distributed for Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Henry Charles Peters, 37, Pittsburgh, Shapiro's assistant.

William Thoma, 56, Cleveland, O., described as secretary of the Machinists union of that city.

Vernon C. Tobias, 44, Frement, Ohio.

Charles L. Whiteley, 41, Youngstown, O., listed as a principal Ohio distributor.

William L. Wilson, Cleveland, Ohio.

John Crummey, 90, Merchant In City's Early Days, Dies

John Crummey, 90, of 127 South Diamond street, a pioneer Mansfield merchant, died at his home yesterday after a brief illness.

Mr. Crummey went into business in this city shortly after the Civil war and operated a meat market on East Fourth street before his retirement 25 years ago.

He was a partner in the Guthrie, Crummey and Hein hardware company, which was located on North Main street, before going into the retail meat business.

Born in New Hampshire, Aug. 22, 1849, he came to this vicinity as a silverware salesman, carrying his wares in a knapsack.

His wife, Fanny, whom he married Dec. 25, 1883, preceded him in death two years ago.

Nephews and nieces, including Amcy and Emory Bird, Fred Horvath and Marion Nixon of Mansfield, survive.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. S. R. Parrett of the Gospel Center church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

RITES HELD FOR FORMER PRINTER

Ralph D. Davis, 47, Buried In Wooster This Afternoon.

Last rites of the International Typographical Union were read for Ralph Dwight Davis, 47, former Mansfield printer, at the Danford funeral home in Wooster last night.

Services were conducted by Mansfield Typographical Union No. 420, in charge of Carl A. Graham, recording secretary.

Mr. Davis, who had been employed on Mansfield newspapers for the past nine years, died suddenly at the Union Printers' Home in Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 30 of a heart attack.

Family services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral home in charge of Rev. R. S. Tuck, with interment in Wooster cemetery.

Two-Year Extension Looms for Dies Probe

Up and Down THE STREET

Reaching voting age and acquiring new parents at the same time would make it a big day for anybody, and that's what a 21-year-old youth near Mansfield did the other day. The youth was adopted by his foster parents just before the adoption deadline—his 21st birthday—making him their legal heir. He had lived with the couple since he was an infant. It was the only case in recent years in county probate court in which an adoption was authorized the final day.

If the telephone rings some night after you've gone to bed, don't be alarmed. It's probably some one "polling" citizens for the school levy or playground levy. Parents are particularly interested in these two levies, for the school levy means the difference between a first and second class high school for Mansfield, while the playground levy means year-round recreation program. Women are working on both of them, calling at homes and by telephone, urging voters to approve the levies. At least one Mansfield family was routed from its slumbers this week to answer the query: "Do you approve the school operating levy? And if so will you be sure to get out and vote for it?" It takes that much effort to get a levy across these days.

Senior high school building had all the earmarks of a backstage this week, what with students rehearsing all over the place for their Red and White day program, which was staged in the auditorium this afternoon. Coming from the various rooms were the sounds of dance practice, dramatic direction, solos, piano numbers and choral groups. Rehearsals were held only during study periods so of course no one minded.

Mansfield postal workers are going to have a swell time with the Johnny Appleseed mail when the new junior high school is christened. There already is a Johnny Appleseed Garden club, the Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout Area, and soon there will be the Johnny Appleseed Junior High school. Mail for the garden club frequently comes to the Scout office and this morning the scouts received a letter intended for a worker on the junior high school project. Johnny always will be a picturesque and beloved character in Mansfield history—but to postal clerks he's going to be something of a pain in the neck.

DIES AT AGE 40

Carl Amstutz Was Insurance Manager in Mansfield.

Carl J. Amstutz, 40, assistant manager of the Mansfield office of Metropolitan Life Insurance company, died yesterday at Mt. McGreggor sanitarium, near Albany, N. Y.

Mr. Amstutz left Mansfield about five months ago, going directly to the company sanitarium. He was a native of Orrville, but had lived in Willard for a number of years. Later he became an agent for the insurance company there. In 1936 he came to the Mansfield office as assistant, the position he held at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, Aileen, and three children, Shirley Ann, James and David. Mrs. Amstutz and her children have been in Granville for the past several months.

The body was brought to the Fink funeral home at Willard this morning and services will be held there. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

BABY BORN TO ARMLESS WIFE

Mother Says Her Feet Will Serve as Arms to Handle Her Ninth Child.

(By Associated Press)

SAFFORD, Ariz.—A six-day-old girl snuggled close to her armless mother, unaware that it was anything but normal to be juggled about for feeding and other care by a pair of feet instead of hands.

The mother, Mrs. Ruth Matthews, a transient, has eight other children. Despite dozens of offers for adoption, she expressed determination to keep the baby, born alongside a highway Saturday.

"It will not take much to feed the baby. It won't cost much," she added anxiously.

Because of the child's birth, Matthews has found a job on a nearby ranch and a house in which the family may live. Having a roof over its head, Mrs. Matthews related, is a new experience for her family.

At her insistence, Mrs. Matthews was released from the hospital to go to her new home, on the edge of one of the upper Gila valley's many cotton fields.

Her armless condition is congenital. Asked how she managed a family and household duties under such a handicap, she said:

"I don't know. But I do manage. I get along. You can do an awful lot with your feet. I can thread a needle, sew, launder and iron, take care of the children and feed myself.

"I'll be able to take just as good care of my baby as you do in the hospital."

3 SUSPENDED

Ashland County Highway Employe, 2 Others Ordered Off Jobs

Adrian Eagle, Ashland county tractor operator, was one of three state highway employes who had been suspended today for "disciplinary reasons."

Highway Director Robert S. Beightler filed 30-day suspension orders with the Civil Service commission against Eagle and two others in Ravenna and Portage county. The Ashland worker has been with the state highway department for about eight years.

TRY SNAKES, THEY'RE UNUSUAL PETS, ENTIRE FAMILY CONTENDS

RIO, Wis.—(U.P.)—If you're looking for unusual pets, David Jennings suggests snakes.

The whole Jennings family are snake fanciers, and on their farm near here each has his immaculate, screened cages where he keeps his pets.

Snakes, declared Jennings, are the most misunderstood creatures on earth.

The hobby started when David's younger brother, Norman, and his sister, Wealthy, heard a high school lecture on reptiles.

They set out to collect as many types as they could find in the locality and soon had such species as the fox snakes, glass snake, the common garter snake and even a 5-foot king snake imported from Missouri.

The garter snakes frequent their dooryard and have become quite tame when they meet with members of the Jennings family.

David lists the fox snakes, erroneously called the "spotted adder," and "copperhead" as the most valuable of the species in this vicinity. He explained:

"The U. S. department of agriculture estimates that the fox snake is worth $50 a season to the farmer on whose land it lives, for the gophers and mice the reptile kills.

"But they are becoming extinct because people who don't understand snakes are killing them."

He declared he couldn't understand "all the foolish yarns concerning snakes, unless they "hark back to the old Biblical story."

Poisonous snakes, David asserted, may be identified by their eyes which are like cats' with a narrow vertical slit.

But he added:

"Snakes are never aggressive. Even the rattlesnake will get away as fast as it can except during about a week when it is blind while shedding skin.

"This is caused by a milk condition in the eye, and not being able to see, it is nature that it try to defend itself."

He ridiculed the belief that snakes with triangular or arrow-shaped heads are poisonous.

FOES CONCEDE HOUSE FAVORS FURTHER QUIZ

Coffee, Critic of Committee, Says Nation Backing Up Continuance Appeal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Dies committee today appeared likely to receive a two-year continuance as leading opponents of the committee conceded that the house would back it.

Rep. Coffee (D) Washington, leader of the House Progressive bloc—a strong critic of the committee—said that the house is certain to give the committee an additional life of two years.

Assails Committee.

Meantime, Chairman Sabath (D) of Illinois, of the powerful rules commitee, which must pass on the matter, assailed the Dies committee. He said that he would not call a meeting of the rules committee until January, which is after the present life of the Dies committee has expired. He charged that Chairman Dies (D) of Texas, of the investigating body has sought to "smear" the administration.

"Most of the Progressive group probably will oppose continuance of the Dies committee, but the House will pass a resolution to that effect," said Coffee. "There is too much pressure from the country for the members to resist the demand."

Sabath, one of the administration leaders of the House, declared that the department of justice has supplanted the Dies committee in investigation of un-American activities.

Democratic Leader Rayburn declined to comment on Dies' request for an extension of the committee's life until 1942.

Meantime, the committee planned to continue its inquiry into the alleged inroads of Communism in the American Merchant marine. Dies, aroused by testimony of two witnesses that their lives were threatened by Communist groups in the Maritime union field, declared that he would use every effort to protect his witnesses.

Analyzing That California Pension Plan That Makes Administrators Dictators

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES—The cry of "dictator" has been raised so often that just now, when a real dictatorship is proposed for California by constitutional amendment, it is necessary to cite chapter and verse to prove the real purpose of a political putsch disguised as an old-age pension plan.

This can be done with quotations from the official proposition, but the pension fake is such a raw, dirty imposition on the fears and hopes of vast numbers of poor people that it is difficult, nevertheless, to present the proof in a word.

The proposed amendment is 1,500 words long and is largely incoherent. It is delirious stuff, and the authors—whoever they may be—appear to have studied the confusion of such masters of obfuscation as Adolf Hitler, Father Coughlin and Father Devine. Yet the binding clauses are there, scattered among twisted language which will be read from beginning to end by only a comparatively few and will not be understood by any of those few

The plot begins to reveal itself in section 3, which says the governor must appoint either Roy G. Owens or Will H. Kindig of Los Angeles as administrator until a successor shall be elected and qualified in 1944.

Then there follows a long, unintelligible description of the dream-bucks or pension warrants, which will be worthless. At the end of this laborious stretch of reading there occurs a paragraph requiring that the warrants must be accepted at face value by all state, county and city governmental bodies in payment of taxes and other obligations—which means, incidentally, that the counterfeit money may be used to pay for gas, water or electricity bought from publicly owned public utilities.

It is provided, however, that public employes need not accept the counterfeit money for their wages, but another provision requires that anyone who sells equipment to the state or any of the inferior governing bodies must accept dream-bucks to the extent of half of his claim.

In these two provisions, close together, the authors discredit their own counterfeit money 100 per cent and 50 per cent, respectively.

Section 16 establishes a state bank, whose chairman shall be the administrator, with an initial kitty of $20,000,000 in real money, to be raised by a bond issue, and section 20 confirms the difference between real money and dream-bucks by referring to the one as "lawful money" and the other as "retirement compensation warrants." The administrator would have authority to hire an unlimited number of employes, and now the promoters really begin to go to town.

They appropriate for themselves $700,000 in real money for administration expenses, of which $200,000 must be spent advertising the ham-and-eggs plan to people who, already having voted on it, would legally be presumed to know all about it. It just happens that among the promoters of the plan there are two men, the Allen brothers, who run an advertising agency.

Section 36 empowers the administrator to call a special election at any time on any amendments to this amendment which he may deem necessary, and section 37 says that no injunction or other writ shall ever be issued to interfere with any act of the administrator. This is the one which places him above the courts and all other laws with supreme power.

The dictatorship over labor is provided for in a section which says that "no capacity to produce goods, services, conveniences or comforts shall be curtailed, limited or rendered non-productive by any means whatever," followed by a declaration that such curtailment or limitation or destruction of production be only by constitutional amendment.

And that is why it is so interesting to note that the state CIO and the San Francisco Labor council of the American Federation of Labor indorsed the plan, nevertheless.

Their ostensible reason was that they owed the adventures behind the ham-and-eggs plan a debt of gratitude for their assistance in defeating an anti-picketing law. This might be true as to the San Francisco Labor council, but the reason why the CIO indorsed it is that the Communists dominate a sufficient number of CIO units to control such a decision.

The Communist party of California has recognized the scheme as a dictatorship and a sure source of public disturbance, probably mob action or revolution, and approves it for that reason. The Communists in control of the CIO voted to support the anti-strike amendment in obedience to the party line from Moscow.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They return from the tubs wherein they were "all washed up":

Garbo. She does it in "Ninotchka." The original mystery girl, nursed along by Metro because she was great guns at European box-offices though not so hot in the U. S., pulls the surprise of the year in her new and first major movie comedy.

To see this Garbo—who can kid herself in an artfully projected, skillfully shaded performance—is to experience a thrill of discovery. You may have known the old Garbo by heart, anticipated her every lid-droop and chest-heave, but there is a surprise ahead in the new Garbo of comedy. For the first time (and this will outrage the Garbo fans who maintain their queen can do no wrong) the lanky Swede emerges from that screen as a complete human being, a girl with warmth and a sense of humor. Add to this the fact that she retains, when necessary, all the romantic magic associated with the Garbo tradition—and there's something for a fan to cheer about.

"Ninotchka" is the first role the gal has had which might encourage a movie fan to walk right up and say, "Hi-ya, Greta, how's tricks?" How she would take it, if any fan did walk right up, I can't say—but it's certain that here is the beginning of Garbo's American popularity.

It's the first picture she has made under Ernst Lubitsch's direction, although for years he has wanted to direct her. The sequel: Lubitsch will draw her again, as already looking for stories.

Dietrich. Hers will come in "Destry Rides Again." It has already come, although the picture is not yet completed. She is getting other bids. Here, too, is a "new personality." Reflected, off screen, by a myriad of gracious gestures, a new friendliness and amiability. The old aloofness—or "Garbo angle"—is gone. As a wild west gal named Frenchy, she is a down-to-earth heroine with no time to pose behind veils, gauze and fish-nets as in the unlamented days of her Von Sternberg tutelage. As a two-fisted, hair-pulling, scratching, and half-Nelson expert in her tussle with Una Merkel, Mar-lay-nah is bound to reawaken audience interest.

Mae West. Teamed with W. C. Fields, she's a natural—if given any kind of story. (Don't know who reported it first, but I still like Producer Lester Cowan's report when Mae asked him, after she and Fields had been going 'round and 'round over their story, how he felt about it. Said Lester: "I feel like Poland!")

Baby Leroy. The enfant terrible of Bill Field's life at Paramount, the first infant star, is seven years old. Having been kept on salary by Paramount all these years, given a stretch at military school, Baby is now known as Lonnie, is ready to do things.

And all of them, from Garbo to Leroy, prove once again that being "washed up" in Hollywood is merely a state of mind—producer's mind.

Art In Applying Lipstick

By MME. QUI VIVE

See that pretty little red pencil? It's the most important item in your beauty kit. It can make you as pretty as a picture or it can turn you into a lithograph. Time was when the powder pad was a girl's palsie-walsie but now the lipstick is the first thing she grabs when she's going any place. Better a shining nose than lips that are naked and unashamed. The lipstick is the best baby in the cosmetic family.

The rosy pigment should form a definite outline of the lips. But does it? More often it goes on in patches, due to the fact that little Miss Hurry hasn't time to do a decent job of lip coloring. A swish here, a dab there, and out she flies. Movie stars don't take a chance of getting a dizzy outline. An orangewood stick is dipped into the carmine ointment, run around the lip edges, then the rest of the area is tinted, worked over carefully with the fingers so that every little crease is filled. To make a perfect job there should be a wide grin; then the flesh is smooth. Do a pucker and the cosmetic will only touch the lifted surfaces.

The under lip seldom gets as much attention as it should and that's bad, since the month petals should be uniform in appearance.

The ruby ointment should extend the full length of the lips, be slightly lighter at the ends. To get that effect, begin the application in the center, putting it on fairly heavily, applying a thinner coating at the corners. A common trick is to cut off the rosy substance at the lips ends, so as to make the mouth look smaller. But who wants a silly little cupid's bow these days? Doesn't suit girls who are bringing home the bacon, running cars and airplanes. It's downright sissy. Though we are taking to petticoats again we like to believe that we are capable individuals, and capable women don't want to look too dolly.

Joan Crawford has made her face vivid and interesting by accentuating her large mouth. So has Katharine Cornell and plenty of others. If the lips are well-shaped, why not play them up? If they are soft and droopy that's another kettle of beauty fish. Only the lightest film should be used then and the color should not be blazing.

Pale lips are the curse one bears for being lazy, having a sluggish circulatory system. Women who are deep breathers, who move about enough to keep blood streams active and digestion in good working order have lips of beautiful coloring. Healthy, active children have red lips. Health habits have much to do with appearance.

Choice of color depends upon the tones of the skin rather than the color of the eyes and hair. Only the redhead has to consider hair. Her flaming tresses and red-red lips must not fight a color war. If locks carry a coppery cast she can't use true red but must seek a lipstick that carries an orange cast.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The memory of Dicky's assertion, that he was going to wear my promise to believe him as if it were shining armor, stayed with me comfortingly when I left him in the apartment at the Lansfield and went down to the armored car which Lillian had sent for my journey to my father's hideaway apartment in Greenwich village.

I said nothing of my conviction to either Harry or Lillian when I returned to the hideout apartment.

"We'll have to hustle a bit," Lillian said when I entered. "I've asked Nellie to bring us some coffee and sandwiches, for while we'll order a dinner tonight at that French restaurant, the Lord alone knows whether or not we'll have a chance to eat it. We can't dawdle over the coffee either. Harry wants plenty of time for the make-up."

"I'm sorry," I began contritely.

"Why?" Lillian countered coolly. "It was the only thing to do to stay there with Dicky as long as you possibly could. I was the one who set the time limit, remember, not you or Dicky. So you have nothing whatever with which to reproach yourself. Don't waste your breath or your energy either talking or thinking about it."

Harry made us up first, and himself afterward, in the same meticulous fashion that he had used the day before when we had made our first excursion to the restaurant.

Just before we were ready to go, Lillian slipped me a tiny silencer pistol of the size she always has with her, and put her own into her purse.

"I don't expect we'll have any use for these tonight," she said, "but one never knows in a stunt of this kind.

"It's a cinch they won't start any gun play at the restaurant," she went on, "but we may have to stage a quiet bit of blackmail with these little persuaders in order to get their consent to leave the Dicky-Bird with us instead of toting him along with them."

"Lillian!" I said explosively, but stopped suddenly with the realization that I could not say to her what was on my lips. But she is what Dicky calls "exceedingly quick on the uptake," and she looked at me comprehendingly.

"I know what you're thinking," she said, "that we're holding out on you, and perhaps we are—a little, not much. But it's necessary, and won't you trust us this once more?"

"You know it," I said contritely. "But it's all so bewildering."

"It is to us, too," she said, "if that's any cold comfort to you. But let's get going! We want to be there before Dicky comes in."

Her wish was granted. Neither Dicky, the woman who had been with him upon his other visit to the restaurant, nor her gangster companion was in evidence when we took our seats at the same table we had the night before. But we had been seated but a few seconds before Harry Underwood leaned over to us.

"Don't look now," he said, "but after a while casually lamp the woman at the second table from the left. If she isn't disguised allee sammee us, then I'll eat this very indigestible wig of mine."

WATER INTO WINE

To remove wine stains, soak cloth as quickly as possible in cold water. If the stain refuses to yield, try the boiling water treatment used for fruit stains. Tightly hold the cloth across a bowl, pour boiling water, held at a height of 2 feet, through the stain until it disappears. Often two persons are needed to do this, one holding the cloth as the other pours.

Meat Dishes Mainstay Of Menu

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Meat is the first thing we think about when planning menus. So today we offer all meat dishes calculated to please both budget and palate.

Prunes add an interesting tang to pot roast, as we discovered when dining with a woman who loves to do kitchen experiments. Soak one-half pound (one cup) dry beans overnight; cook them next morning until tender. Also soak one-half pound prunes overnight. Brown a piece of pot roast on all sides in hot lard in a skillet. Season well and place in covered roaster. Surround the meat with the beans and prunes, add one-third cup molasses, more seasoning, if desired, and enough water to barely cover the beans and prunes. The water in which prunes have been soaked should be used. Cover and bake at 350 degrees F. until meat is tender, 30 minutes to a pound. An hour before meat is done add pared and halved potatoes.

Tasty Dish.

For a tasty dish line up four tablespoons lard, one pound ground beef, one cup chopped onions, two teaspoons salt, pepper, one cup chopped celery, two cups stewed tomatoes, three tablespoons honey, two cups cooked rice. Brown beef and onion in the lard in a skillet. Add the seasonings. Mix all the ingredients together in a well-greased skillet and bake about one and one-half hours at 350 degrees F. This is an economical dish since this amount serves 6 to 8.

Meat Pie is delicious and economical, too. It is made with one pound inexpensive beef or left-over meat, flour, four tablespoons lard, one small chopped onion, salt, pepper, three medium potatoes, three medium carrots, biscuit dough. Cut meat in small cubes, flour and brown in the hot lard. Season well. Add a little water, the chopped onion and cook until tender, 30-45 minutes. Cut the potaoes in cubes and the carrots in crosswise slices and boil in salty water until tender. Make a gravy over the meat by adding more water or milk and thickening with flour stirred up with cold water. Add the vegetables and mix gently. Pour into a casserole oiled with lard, place baking powder biscuits over the top and bake at 425-450 degrees Fahrenheit until biscuits are well browned — about 15 minutes. Serves six.

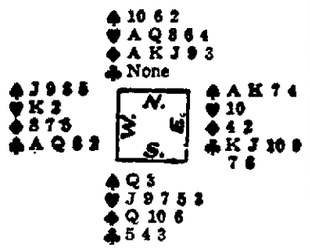
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONTRASTING READINGS

High card signals can be hard to read. When your partner gives you one on your king lead, he may want you to follow with the Ace and then give him a third-round ruff, or he may want you to underlead your ace and put him in the lead with the queen. The entire fate of your defensive effort may depend upon making the right choice.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

The bidding was about the same on this deal at the tables of a tournament, with North calling 1-Heart, East 2-Clubs, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 4-Hearts, East 4-Spades and everybody passing, although North and South could make 5-Hearts.

At every table North led the diamond K and received the 10 from his partner as his signal. In one case then, North took his two red aces and then led a diamond, the contract being made easily. In another case the high signal was interpreted by North as indicating a doubleton and a desire by South to ruff the third round. So he followed with the ace and a third diamond, again the contract being made.

At the third table North read the high signal differently, so to the second trick he led his diamond 3 to South's Q. Back came a club which was ruffed by North, who then cashed his heart A, defeating the contract.

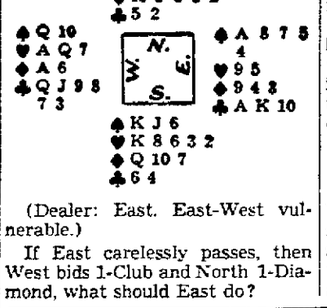
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East carelessly passes, then West bids 1-Club and North 1-Diamond, what should East do?

BAKED VIRGINIA HAM

Wash ham thoroughly in warm water, scrubbing with brush or cloth. Then soak overnight in enough cold water to cover ham. Place in large broiler with sufficient cold water to cover the ham entirely. Boil slowly, with top on boiler, until ham is tender and large bone in butt of ham becomes very loose and protrudes. The average ham requires approximately 25 minutes cooking per pound. When ham is done, remove from broiler and when cold enough, remove the skin and some of the fat. Stud with whole cloves and cover with 1½ cups of pure New Orleans molasses. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Place ham in an open baking pan. Add a glass of sherry wine. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 45 to 60 minutes or until fat is browned. Baste often.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 4.

The lunar aspects of this day seem to hold omen of interests working at cross-purposes. There is much to be done to realize smooth running in employment and to maintain the good graces of superiors and those in places of authority. It may be difficult to secure cooperation or favors under such adverse signs. Be judicious and conservative in making sudden changes, and shun extravagance.

Those whose birthday it is may have to exercise good judgment and wise management in counteracting tendencies of affairs to become muddled or upset by friction, over-inflated ideas, expansive and extravagant impulses. All are likely to inflame opposition or open hostility of employers or superiors. Similar egotistic or indulgent attitudes may complicate personal relations.

A child born on this day may have rather extravagant ideas which may prove detrimental to its success in employment and to the happiness of its private associations.

Costume Jewelry Adds To Autumn Fashions

Necklaces do new tricks this year. Diamonds make a blazing glory which can be hooked together to form a long pendant, as you see it left, or taken apart to form a bracelet and a short pendant swung from a velvet neck band.

Here you see what "costume jewels" can do. Stones red as rubies shimmer in the necklace and bracelet.

Gold temple bells and jade plaster flower pots clink in a Chinese necklace worn by Gladys Swarthout.

Informally Speaking...

MOST ALL of us undoubtedly would like nothing better than to drive to Cleveland this week to see Katharine Cornell, who's appearing there with Francis Lederer in the stage play "No Time for Comedy." . . . But then, we aren't all quite so fortunate as some Mansfielders—so I guess we'll just have to hear about it all from them. . . . Mrs. Harold Bruce, Mrs. William Bloor, Mrs. F. J. Heringhaus, Mrs. J. H. Gongwer, Mrs. Paul Cropper, Mrs. V. H. Lodde, Mrs. Frank Mahoney, Mrs. Carl O. Russell, Mrs. Arthur Sprecker, Mrs. W. W. Stark and Mrs. C. V. Marks are among the folks who went up for the play this week, and they say Miss Cornell was superb in her role, and looked especially lovely throughout the entire show, wearing a different ensemble for each scene. And when one party of Mansfielders arrived (who, fortunately, had already purchased tickets) two men were walking about in front of the theater stating that there was no longer even any standing room left!

HER many Mansfield friends will be pleased to know that Mrs. Masters H. Moore is here for a visit from Tyler, Tex. . . . Perhaps you remember her better as Eileen Snyder, because this is the first time she's been back in town since her marriage two years ago. . . . She's staying with her mother, Mrs. Gay Snyder, while here—her husband, Dr. Moore, couldn't make the trip north with her because he's busy with his duties as a pediatrician in Tyler. .

Speaking of former residents and the west and all—lots of folks will be interested in knowing that Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gibbs celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary yesterday out in Riverside, Cal. . . . They moved to Riverside seven years ago after having lived in Mansfield for 35 years. . . . Their daughter (whom most of you probably remember), Mrs. Ralph E. Coons, also makes her home in Riverside. . . . Another daughter, Mrs. Charles Palmer, who lives here, says that since all the anniversaries after the 50th are so important, she just can't get out to the west coast for all of them—she was there, however, for the celebration two years ago.

IT SEEMS that most all the news today is about the West. . . . Sanchen Cutler left for California yesterday noon. . . . Her grandmother, Mrs. Rudolph Strehlow, has been visiting here from LaJolla, Cal., and so Sanchen has gone back with her for a vacation. . . . While there she's also planning to see friends in Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Saw Mrs. Paul English downtown yesterday with her young daughter, who's just about a year old. . . . And the baby looked much like a little doll—all dressed up in pale pink to make her big brown eyes look even darker—and she had a perky pink ribbon tied in her brown hair.

A CLEAN SWEEP

Carpet sweepers need constant care and watching if they are to work best. Empty them frequently, keep the brushes very clean and cut off any hairs or threads that cling to them. Oil them as the maker directs. When not in use, hang up the sweeper to save wear on the brushes.

DOUBLE DUTY

To save steps and energy in a two-floored house, double up on cleaning equipment. Keep one set upstairs—floor mop, cleaning powders and cloths, dust pan and a broom—and another downstairs. This much equipment will last twice as long as one set, so it is not impractical.

She'd Be King

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS.

Mrs. Paul Hockensmith gave a dinner party for ten friends yesterday evening at her home on Richland avenue. A bouquet of chrysanthemums and tall ivory tinted tapers lighted the table for dinner, which was followed by a social evening. Out-of-town guests included: Miss Geraldine Crumb, Miss Jean White, Miss Helen Englehart and Mrs. Ruth Amick of Galion and Mrs. Agnes Layers of Bucyrus.

Tasty new BRAN REFRIGERATOR ROLLS—TRY THEM

Finer hot breads and cakes with purer Spry—deep-fries without acrid smoke or odor

SPRY is purer. Stays fresh longer. Creams so easily. These are mighty important advantages and only Spry gives you all three! Change to Spry for all baking and frying.

BRAN REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

2 cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup Spry
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup sugar
1 cup bran
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
7 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Crumble yeast into small bowl or cup. Add lukewarm water and 1 teaspoon sugar and set in warm place until it becomes light and spongy (about 15 minutes). Combine Spry, salt, sugar and bran in large bowl and add boiling water. Stir until Spry is melted, then add milk. Add yeast mixture and eggs and mix. Add flour gradually, mixing very thoroughly until a stiff dough is formed.

Take out enough dough to make desired number of rolls. Grease hands thoroughly with Spry, pinch off pieces of dough, shape into balls and place in muffin pans greased with Spry. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 2 hours). Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Place remaining dough in large bowl greased with Spry. Cover and store in refrigerator for later use. Dough may be kept 2 or 3 days. Makes 3 dozen rolls.
